Foreword . . . . .

TO produce an annual that is different from all previous editions is the ideal of every college yearbook editor. To gain this ideal, past RUBY editors have employed every possible theme, ranging all the way from the strictly formal type of 1934 to the highly intimate RUBY of 1935. In the belief that that a yearbook should be neither wholly one nor the other, the staff of the 1936 RUBY has endeavored to strike a balance between these two extremes of formality and intimacy, depicting formally the more serious aspects of our college years and informally those phases most closely associated with our every day collegiate life. In this way we hope to reach that elusive "happy medium", and at the same time attain that "individualistic" goal which will stamp the 1936 RUBY as a successful yearbook.

Dedication

The dedication of a yearbook must, to some degree, be in keeping with its theme; and in this case, therefore, necessitated the selection of a personage who exemplified that desirable combination of formality and intimacy. But even more important than this is the feeling, among the editors, that the choice of a dedicatee should fall upon someone who represents, in all things, the true friend of the students. No one connected with the College can satisfy both these requirements better than our respected professor and genial friend, Dr. J. Lynn Barnard. To him this 1936 "Ruby" is sincerely dedicated.

DR. GEORGE L. OMWAKE, President

IT was with extreme regret that the College received the news last fall of Dr. Omwake's resignation. It is unnecessary to add that the absence of a man who has done so much to build up Ursinus will be deeply felt by all who knew him. For thirty-five years, Dr. Omwake has devoted all his time and energy to this institution, first as a professor, then as Dean, and for the past twenty-two years as President. It is only fitting that the class of 1936 take this opportunity of paying tribute to Dr. George Leslie Omwake.

Administrative Heads

DURING the leave of absence of President Omwake, a Committee on Administration was set up by the Board of Directors to conduct the affairs of the College for the year 1935-36. This committee consists of Dean Wharton A. Kline, Dr. John W. Clawson, Dr. Calvin D. Yost, Sr., Prof. J. Harold Brownback, and Prof. Franklin I. Sheeder, whose pictures appear on this page. The other chief administrative officer is Dr. Elizabeth B. White, who has served as Dean of Women since 1924.

MARY HELEN ALSPACH

Four years ago, a blonde-haired young lady with a flashing smile attracted the attention of everyone as she entered fair Ursinus' portals. Today the same flashing smile greets all entrants to South's reception room where this feminine co-head of the famed P. P. Club holds sway. Mary Helen, the daughter of a director and sister of a '33 "big shot", is characterized by a natural air of indecision and a seriousness that makes her an easy victim to the pranks of her playful hall-mates and Phi Psi sisters.

MARY HELEN ALSPACH

AGNES MAY BAKER

AGNES MAY BAKER

If the walls of the girls' day study could talk, the class' one and only "Aggie" might be made to blush. Since her first year, she has shown a love of the forensic art by indulging each noon in heated arguments, ranging in topic from the latest chocolate cake recipe to Willauer's ideas of romantic love and whether or not tears are a defensive mechanism. Even greater subjects for oratory were derived from those practice teaching episodes in Norristown on which the "Studie" was turned into a taxi and was driven like one.

HERMAN BASSMAN

"Heimy", the man who intercepted and ran back a pass for fifty yards and our second victory over Penn in history. "Reds" is also a real "hard guy" among the grapplers, his greatest worry being to find opponents unafraid to stand up and fight. Although he began his athletic career as a frosh home-run king, he never developed in the national pastime, as his legs proved unadaptable to rapid circling of bases. He first ventured forth socially as a soph, but really blossomed forth in this respect when Gertie descended on the campus.

HARRY MYERS BEAR

On five days of the week Harry has generously "sacrificed" a part of his time to go to school and keep his classmates in good cheer. That he succeeded in doing this is appreciated by all with whom he came in contact (and probably by those not so fortunate). This effervescence kept up even when confronted with that three o'clock Ed. class. Seriously though, Harry, unfortunately unable to graduate with his original class, has come back to complete his four years at Ursinus only by overcoming serious obstacles.

HERMAN BASSMAN

HARRY MYERS BEAR

THOMAS J. BEDDOW

HAROLD ABRAM BEYER

THOMAS JOHN BEDDOW

From a Frackville coal-cracker, bragging about the "Home Site of the Anthracite", "Tucker" has risen to the presidency of a class famed for making money even on Junior Week-end. Paralleling this is an even greater achievement in his advance from Chief Woman Hater to Glenwood's and Gina's "choice." One of Barnard's B-lister Brain-Trusters, this future lawyer is of that species of fellows who are mixed up with everything, having tried his hand at Weekly editorializing, contract bridge, raising up on debate trips, living on lettuce, getting ads, and going out to "play."

THEODORE HENRY BOYSEN, JR.

"Theophilous" always insists upon thinking matters over. He has been a tactful apple-polisher and an elusive socialite, only occasionally seen accompanied by a flapper femme. As prexy of the Hall Chem. Society, he was obliged to be politic and take Quantitative. An ardent supporter of the man who won the war, he considers his greatest accomplishment the avoidance of the Dean's History. Although rated as Freeland's greatest snoozer, he finally managed to inveigle Marlene into giving him an assistantship to Janitor Barnes.

HAROLD ABRAM BEYER

"Sledge" is a tall, gangling farmer from "dahn" Norristown way. Many and varied are the stories concerning his wildness, as a ball tosser among other things, but we don't believe them all. Demas took him under its wing and made a real gentleman out of him, they say. His third claim to fame is that of "mathematician par excellence", and implanter of knowledge in the brains of Norristown youths. Most of his time at Ursinus is spent either in class or in haunting the day study, ping-ponging, bull-sessioning, etc.

EUGENE JOSEPH BRADFORD

Gene, the great lover and letter-writer extraordinary, fought his way out of the Jersey swamps into the "healthy" atmosphere of Ursini Collegii. Athletic to the 'nth degree, Gene is remembered for touchdowns defeating F. and M. Aspiring to be an orator, Gene turned forensicist for a year, but his social duties as "King Consort of Glenwood" during his last year, cut his oratorical career short. Dancer, "Nancer", walker, letter-writer, and star-gazer, Gene prepares to teach and coach.

THEO. H. BOYSEN, Jr.

EUGENE J. BRADFORD

ROBERT L. BRANDAUR

JOHN H. BROWN, Jr.

ROBERT LEWIS BRANDAUR

Bob hails from the midst of the hard-coal regions, where men are men, and women are masculine, too. As a bell-ringer B. D. (before Dietz), Bob proved himself best at ringing the 7:30 curfew at 8:00 in the springtime. His latest pet obsession was playing bridge "a la contrat" in that most frequented of haunts, the Brodbeck Clubhouse, where he "doubled and redoubled" with the best of them. A sturdy Sturgis Chem-Bi-er and "B-lister" as well, Bob's intentions are to hate women and go on to graduate school, beakers, test-tubes, thistle-tubes, retorts, and all.

JOHN HENRY BROWN, JR.

Hail to Frankford's one and only "day student." Although registered as a full timer, Jack spent more than most of his time around "Her" home. A student of diversified talents, ranging from unbeatable imitations of combustion engines to sketches of true aesthetic value, he found ample time to show his wares. With grim determination, he survived the idiosyncrasies of football, soccer, and baseball managers to become one of their rank. Credit is due him for managing the business end of the RUBY as well as for founding the local chapter of the "Go-ya-one-better" club.

HELEN GERTRUDE CALDWELL

Although masked by a reputation for quietness, this Philadelphia "demoiselle" has, on occasion, been caught making the oddest noises at the most peculiar times, including a shrieking mistaken for a fire siren by the Mapleite "students" hard at work producing silence. Helen has also been found guilty of "pfoofing" away a large share of her time, the remainder of which is spent mainly in consuming ice cream, gathering sociological data from Elliott and Merrill, and in securing her professional training the Mr. Man way.

CLIFFORD DONALDSON CALVERT, JR.

Cliff entered college towering over the rest of the class, and he leaves the same way, not only in stature but in athletics as well. Nine major sports' letters means a lot of activity, but Cliff has them, his best showing being made as one of Horse's meat choppers and co-captain of Hash's "system" players. As prexy of the class two years ago, he tried to put the freshmen to bed, but the skirmish following ended in a draw. His nightly entrance into the foot-races conducted by Fissel led to an unenviable job as "laborer" for the Senior "Brawl."

HELEN G. CALDWELL

C. D. CALVERT, Jr.

GEORGE B. CARVELL

ALEX. R. CLAWSON

GEORGE BEAR CARVELL

George finished his college career under a "cooperative" system, combining both theory and practice in his ministerial preparation. He also extended his system by co-operating with a certain young lady from Trappe. Distinguishing features of Carvell are an infectious laugh, ability to display shock, and a proper sense of propriety. In a world about to be engulfed by the evils of modernity, Carvell stands as a representative of the old, abiding, American traditions of right and wrong.

ALEXANDER ROBERTSON CLAWSON

With red hair, reeking pipe, brown jacket, and Ford coupe, Alex drove around the block and entered Ursinus with the odds in his favor. The son of a faculty member and a native of Collegeville, he knew all the "big boys" before the rest of us had even arrived. Between supporting the Day Study Athletic Club and managing tackling dummies, football uniforms, and Gus, for the McAvoy-men, "Bull" divided his spare time. A Chem-Bi Grouper, he, nevertheless, succumbed to the family influence and delved into math, even to the extent of Charley's Statistics.

CHARLES LAMB CUBBERLEY, JR.

"Sweepy", the lad who looks pugnacious but isn't, ranks among the campus aristocrats, running his own car and keeping himself in spending money by means of wise and profitable rentals of the same. He gave up the tough end of the grunt-and-groan racket to become intermediary in the guerilla war between the grapplers and Grumbling Gus. From the wilds of New Jersey to four-year drummer in the "snappy" Ursinus band, Parodian trap man, and shortstop de luxe — this is "Sweepy's" record of rise to fame.

JOHN EDWARD DAVISON

The scintillating star from Abington who carved his notch in the heart of a beautiful blonde. Dubbed "Snake-hips" after a three-year course under McAvoy, Chase, and Co., Jack was prevented by a leg injury from hanging his shoes along with greater Ursinus football men. As a senior he made a strong bid for the Kingship of Glenwood by virtue of his one continuous date with Libby. By bringing brother Harry to Ursinus and the Apes, Jack completed his share in the task of preserving the Davison tradition.

CHAS. L. CUBBERLEY, Jr.

JOHN E. DAVISON

ROBERT R. DEEN

CHARLES F. EHLY

ROBERT REYNOLDS DEEN

Bob likes green ties and shirts (to contrast with his tomato toupee), candy-stick socks, and the music going round and round. His girl friends—and there are oodles—prefer to call him Bobbie, and this year he has gone in for the opposite sex in a big way. As keeper of the College General Emporium, he earned his D.C. (distinguished chiseler) degree and retired his senior year to await his B.S. and acceptance to Temple Med. School. Dr. Deen will probably be Port Royal's "local boy who made good."

CHARLES FRANCIS EHLY

Charley entered Ursinus with many ministerial characteristics, a few of which were even more firmly established by the influence of his bunk-mate, the one and only H. Allen. To be maintained, some of these had to weather many a storm in that "weather-beaten" hall of the Marines. Remaining sincere, conscientious, and immaculate after four years in Curtis is a job for any student, and especially one of the Brotherhood. One of Jennie's "boys", his activities in the Glee Club served as the one means to keep him on campus week-ends.

GLENN KLINE EPPRECHT

Glenn is just another country boy who found Ursinus life more attractive than tilling the soil. The reasons are obvious. Our hero's favorite pastimes have been chewing the rag in Curtis and hungrily pursuing the learned theorems of Manning, et al. During his years here, Glenn has been numbered among the diamond men, where "he indeed wielded a mighty bat." Glenn ranks among those numerous senior males, including Gensler, Davison, Gaumer, Harbaugh, Beddow, and Stoudt, who have made matriculation at Ursinus a family tradition.

DORA GERTRUDE EVANS

Entering college with the dual task of upholding the family reputation and making her own personality felt, this West Chester mathematician fooled most people and did both. Big Chief of the feminine forensicists and at one time one of the Little Big Chiefs on the Weekly Scandal Sheet, Dora exhorted her views from both the rostrum and the printed page. Deserting all girls' halls in her last year for the more uplifting environment of Dr. Barnard's inner circle, she has proved the truth of the old adage that variety, even in labor, is the spice of life.

GLENN K. EPPRECHT

DORA G. EVANS

ELIZABETH FLORENCE EVANS

Elect of Ursinus girls, Betty was chosen to preside over the annual May fete. Dignity, graciousness, and personal charm combined with business sense, good taste, and that desirable quality of "letting go"—but only at the proper times, of course—distinguished her on campus. Her activities ranged from guiding the fates of the W. S. G. A. to that of determining the fate of any number of ambitious suitors. And in the latter case, she can hardly be guilty of having played Penelope, despite her mastery of the dramatic art.

ELIZABETH F. EVANS

GEORGE E. FISSEL

GEORGE EDWARD FISSEL

Nimble fingers enabled this York protege to land both the job of "Rec" Hall pianist and the famed name of "Noble." A lover of Casa Loma, Benny Goodman, and the like, George spent his spare time in Brodbeck criticizing and analyzing well-known orchestras and their respective "unorthodox" styles. Besides music (and other activities somewhat clouded in mystery), George acquired a "contract-bridge complex" under the tutelage of Heiges and Kurtz, former Brodbeck sharks. After gaining the proper "concept" of how to get along without over-exertion, "Noble" is planning to enter Med. School.

OSCAR CASSELL FREAS, JR.

"O. C.", alias "Cassell", alias "Rasputin", noted Derr Hall astronomer, specializes in star-gazing in and out of class. After two years of Brodbeckian atmosphere shared with Jaggard the Terrible, Oscar moved to Derr to lead a "relatively" quiet life in company with Schiele, Turner, Rinehart, and Co. His formal bid for popularity came with his appearance as the "killer" in the Junior Play, and was rapidly followed by the incident of Minerva the Cat. With time found both for study and social life, "O. C." remains a gentleman of the first, or second, water.

CLYDE ALLAN FREECE

"It's written in the stars"; so for four years this crack star-gazer and mathematician has hitched his academic wagon to a star, only to come sliding down to earth via that much-feared "bell-shaped curve" route. Just couldn't seem to catch on to the "army" way of doing things. Although a peace-loving type, Allan had troubles even as a lover, being forced into seclusion on many occasions to escape the advances of certain designing Ursinus women. With all his trials and tribbs, he always found time to devote to those Tuesday tid-bits to Tyson—of Kimberton.

OSCAR C. FREAS, Jr.

CLYDE ALLAN FREECE

EDWIN HERBERT FREY

LYDIA ESTHER GANSER

EDWIN HERBERT FREY

A Philadelphian who tried a local college and quickly saw the superiorities of our Alma Mater, Ed descended on Curtis three and a half years ago and hasn't been uprooted since. Ed spends his autumns playing soccer, his winters studying for the ministry, and his springs attending the afternoon sessions of the Campus Country Club's Sun Bathing Society. Heading that section of the Parsons who constitute the Brotherhood, Ed devotes his creative talents toward finding things for the preachers to do in an effort to keep them out of mischief.

LYDIA ESTHER GANSER

Lydia is one of those super-efficient people who always succeed with minimum effort, until the problem of getting a good night's rest presents itself. After four years of practical application of her acquired mathematical principles, she has declared it a problem of chance with the odds against her. A recognized star both at tennis and Phi Psi rushing, this veteran Shreinerite balances the work and play columns of her time budget, as evidenced by her regular appearance on the B-list, and her ascendancy to the presidency of the Eighth Avenue Bridge Club.

THOMAS WILLIAM GARRETT

Down from Orwigsburg came our littlest member. Although the smallest in stature, "Tee-Wee" is one of the staunchest supporters of the superiorities of Curtis. The banker of the class, "Peter" occupied a permanent "chaar" while absorbing the principles of high finance as practised by the "Kaintucky Colonel." His reportorial duties demanded much of his time, but nevertheless, Tommy found ample opportunity to pull his daily "fast one" to the great delight of the frequenters of the Demas domicile.

VIRGINIA ELIZABETH GARRETT

Thump, thump, clatter, thump, and a "Hi, toots", and you know its "Ginny" coming down the stairs, with a sparkle in her eye and mischief up her sleeve. "Ginny" is South's imp, and M. H. A. is usually the victim. And when she isn't teasing someone, she's lounging around making those dry cracks that put the crowd in stitches. Contrary to custom, she likes school so much that she hates to leave it even during vacations. The attraction is of a sublime, though "sophomoric", nature, and can usually be seen of a Sunday eve headed toward a secluded retreat.

THOMAS W. GARRETT

VIRGINIA E. GARRETT

ALBERT R. GAUMER

HAROLD B. GENSLER

ALBERT ROBERT GAUMER

Plodding wearily to class, the football field, or the gym, Al earned the fitting title of "Hard Time." His frequent absences from campus Saturday evenings is said to be caused by a weakness for the fair sex—of Norristown, which may also account for his faithful attendance at Rec Hall, that hangout of all campus romeos. Athletically inclined, but handicapped by shortness of stature, "Ally" tried his hand at three major sports until he finally won the coveted "U" in the sport of Rockne and Warner.

HAROLD BISHOP GENSLER

Easy-going, jovial "Barrel" is this year's "local boy who made good"—making good as a slashing tackle, a polished second baseman, and a student. "Gens" prepared for a diplomatic career but ignored the I. R. C. His interesting manner of apologizing when compelled to ask a question distinguished him among Willauer's sextet of legal prodigies. Although of the Demas clan, he forfeited his prestige as an aristocrat by love of the fine arts; but he lost his sole claim to superiority on a noteworthy trip to one of Philadelphia's "Midnight Operas."

THOMAS PARVIN GLASSMOYER

"T. P.", our brainy, reculant RUBY Regent, seldom absent from "wreck" hall, often the vertex of an eternal triangle; and were it not for Tommy's conscientious efforts toward editing, the freshman competition might have been eliminated. Aside from his philandering activities, he has managed to maintain a position as "ward heeler," Inn-keeper of the Demas Domicile, stout defender of the student council, and Weekly correspondent in an anti-Shelley campaign. With a Willauerian background, Tommy's abilities will be turned toward purging the legal profession.

FULLER HOOPER GRENAWALT

Here is a "Valley Boy" who came down to civilization, Ursinus, and Lydia; liked it, and stayed awhile. He started out with the notorious Marines in Curtis and has been one ever since, with the exception of a short interval spent among the Dean's Derr Dogs. Not having enough trouble keeping "Bogo" straight, "Greeny" finally took the responsibility for all of Zeta Chi, an unenviable job. Initiated into the mysteries of college life by the inimitable Jack Robbins, he has "gotten around" in his time.

THOMAS GLASSMOYER

FULLER GRENAWALT

JOHN G. GRIMM

From out of the "West", where men are reputed to be men and not mice, Johnny soon became the "mousified" first vice-president of the Phi Psi Auxiliary. Forsaking his duties in that exalted office, "P. P." found time to lead the Grizzlies with Bennie through an in-and-out football season. Grappling and breaking track records in timber topping were other sidelines. His low, masterful voice was a thrill to the "chilluns" while teaching as well as while elaborating his dining room announcements or agreeing to accompany Mary Helen on frequent trips to Lancaster.

JOHN G. GRIMM

MILDRED EVA GRING

MILDRED EVA GRING

Once upon a time a Senior Ball chaperone glanced askance and questioned, "Who's the escort tonight?" The connotation of this remark adequately describes the vacillating social career of Mildred at Ursinus. From a paper boy's attentions to the personal services of the head waiter, this blue-eyed, curly-haired, South Hallite has progressed, all the while adjusting her behavior from the frivolous to the serious, her hobby from dancing to Ocean City tables, and her purpose from recreation to toil, as necessity and opportunity demand.

WILLIAM GORDON HANNAWAY

A long time ago, a Sunday School teacher's words of wisdom definitely fixed a missionary's career for Gordon. Hailing from Norristown, long famed as an abode for the dementia praecox, Gordon's continual smile and ceaseless supply of home-made, but humorous, stories were a never-ending comfort. His senior year wrought a metamorphosis, and a social butterfly was born. But perseverance and ambition prevailed and graduation finds him batting .300. Matchless wit (on occasion), energy, and a definite goal mould this man.

ELBERT KERMIT HARBAUGH

Introducing the Hearst of Ursinus, controller of Ursinus public opinion through the "Weekly", and all the while the one and only "Appleknocker." A budding lawyer and political scientist, friend of Willauer and Barnard, he is one of the campus "big shots." Rooming with "Schnosz", though primarily a student, he still enjoys those midnight sessions with the Kings and Queens in Derr's Penthouse and can also sling the bull with the best of them. Homer is also renowned as a class-cutter extraordinary.

W. G. HANNAWAY

E. KERMIT HARBAUGH

PAULINE E. HEFFLEGER

NORRIS A. JOHNSON

PAULINE EDNA HEFFLEGER

Four years at college, or anywhere for that matter, change the personalities of most of us, but in few cases does it make such reversals as in this "Miss" from Tower City. As a freshman, Polly spent most of her time on the books or trying to keep the girls' day study inhabited. A metamorphosis took place, and she became the chief prank-concocter and noise-maker for the Maples attic. She is also renowned for two major discoveries, including the most effective way to turn off lights and the speediest means of getting to Norristown.

NORRIS AUSTIN JOHNSON

The only representative in the class from the Trappe half of the local twin boroughs, Norrie showed a stick-to-it-iveness on the football field that would be a credit to anyone. Besides sloughing around in the gridiron mud, Norrie also trod the cinder track each spring in the guise of a potential Cunningham or Venzke, seeking to attain that elusive five-minute mile. He once held the purse-strings of the class treasury, but evidently deserted the job in disgust, and took up the Science of Statistics as more worthy of his mathematical endeavors.

HAROLD EVERETT JONES

Four years ago, Bordentown Military Institute heaved a sigh of relief and presented "Jonesy" to Ursinus with its compliments. In those days, he intended to be a doctor, but later changed his mind (or had it changed for him by Brownback, Sturgis, and Co.). A tearer-downer of the first order, Harold can, and does, spend hours telling what is wrong with the world in general, and Pennsylvania in particular. A four-year Curtis man, he is not entirely innocent of many devilttries concocted in that den of famous Marines.

SARAH HELEN KEYSER

This young lady is one of those few we hunt up when there's work to be done or help needed to understand some of Skipper's ideas. This personification of dependability is usually seen hurrying around campus with an armful of books and a serious expression on her face that indicates just another worry on her mind. She spends her winters being a varsity athlete, a not-too-strict librarian, a conscientious "Y" worker, and one of the army of May pageant directors, and in the summer she vacations with another work-out at Bethany Orphanage.

HAROLD E. JONES

SARAH HELEN KEYSER

EMMA P. KIRKPATRICK

DONALD H. KOCHER

EMMA PHIPPS KIRKPATRICK

"Kirky" came to Ursinus from "Conshy", ostensibly because it was a high-grade institution, but perhaps because of the admirable qualities of natives of the Collegeville area. She spends most of her time pulling down the highest marks in all available French courses, taking long walks with that Collegeville "native" mentioned above, or performing her duties as Queen in the Corridor de Reception for the Maples High-Lights. On the side, she conducted a successful rush (to the tune of 14 pledges) for the Tau Sigs in the annual sorority hair-pulling contest.

JACOB KRAUSE

Brilliance disguised behind a mask of indifference identifies this man. Only those intimate with Jack recognize his many-sided personality, his perfect social tastes, his ability to enjoy life. His understanding of human nature, especially of the female of the species, and his superb egotism aid him in realizing this joy of living. His greatest talent, as he'll readily admit, is being able to converse upon any topic, thoroughly, for hours. His utter disregard for hours of study and his subsequent high marks provide a source of wonder for all.

DONALD HARRY KOCHER

Introducing with much fanfare and maidens' dancing, Donaldo de la Koshay, alias dictus "Twinkletoes" of Rec. Hall fame. His reputation as a heart seeker-and-finder, won permanence in Reading, although reports of his social flings in Palmerton, Bethlehem, Allentown, and vicinity, were widespread years before. Don is a serious "hit-the-books" student, with jovial moods coming usually after midnight. Just another of those Chem-Bi bugs, expecting to teach or heal by medicine.

ROBERT LAMAR KREBS

Bob is the coal regions' contribution to the Derr Hall Menagerie, another converted Chem-Bi Grouper and a member of the freshman year triumvirate of Beddow, Reese, and Krebs. A pal of the profs, he has seen the world in the company of the well-known Chemistry instructor. His pet sport is regaling friends with stories of the regions and the characters of the old home town. Seems to prefer ex-supply-store-managers for roommates, sharing bunks with the Dutchman Frantz and the light-footed Deen. Likes to call everybody "Joe" and bum "dopes."

ELIZABETH ANN KRUSEN

Pert, proud, and pretty well describe this South Hall maid. With a faculty for interpreting friendly remarks in their wrong light, Betty has occasionally been forced into a role that might be called "Misunderstood Betsy." Despite this complication, Betty has risen to the top in various fields, including the stage, the guidance of inter-sorority relations, and above all Ursinus society. Her popularity calls for a budgeted time program, which she has effected with an equitable division among Norristown, State College, and South's third floor front.

HARVEY LEROY LANDIS

Through and through a business man, "Leaky" developed techniques for his chosen profession as money-man on the Grizzly Gridder where he built up a line that can talk a cigar-store Indian into a full-page ad. "In the know" through his position as right-hand man to Miss Ermold, he, nevertheless, has never been known to accept graft as a silencer. A tenor of no mean ability, he ranks among the gone but not forgotten Duchess' corporals. Always on the go, Derr Hall's resident day student is famed for owning the "Campus Cab" and chauffeuring "Donaldo", "Junior", and the "Confederate."

HENRY MARION KWIECINSKI

Starting his freshman year at Ursinus with the class of '34, "K. K." took a two-year leave of absence, recognized a good class when he saw it, and came back to finish with us. The slave of tackling dummies and sand bags during football season, "Butch" proved he could "take it" while in the game. Although acquiring most of his social life among the cranberry bogs of his native Jersey plains, "K. K." went social for a while with little "Sweet Pea." A fun-lover, but a "B-listener" just the same.

HELEN ROADS LAUBENSTEIN

Perhaps you have noticed a plaid coat dashing into the Science Building. There have been many plaid coats on campus in the past, but never one like this, concealing beneath it a pre-med maiden who takes her sciences seriously. Under such circumstances, you can't blame her good-humored nature from becoming dampened, especially at the time of those dreaded three-hour exams. The female representative of the aristocrats of the class, Helen sports a spiffy Buick coupe that has gradually become the Maples-Glenwood-Shreiner-Etc., town-car.

H. LEROY LANDIS

WILLIAM M. LEEBRON

RUBIN LEVIN

WILLIAM M. LEEBRON

Willie the "Wary" is seldom outdistanced when narrating—whether it be the Odyssey or Tales of Tillie. Once quite attached to the House of Hoover, he now favors ardently a "New Deal." His frequent week-ends off campus and the occasional appearance of a perfumed V-8 seem to indicate that Eve's apple was more important than Newton's, even if he was a student in the Cluttered Chamber of Wheels, Wires, and What-you-call-its. During his senior year he was an able Pharisee in the midst of Stine's hymn-howling Parsons.

RUBIN LEVIN

A description of Rube in a word—versatile. An All-Conference football guard, with plenty of time to be the guiding hand at the fortnightly socials of Dr. White's embryo diplomats, to conduct excursions taken by the future Websters, and to take frequent journeys down the "Road to Mandalay", where his fondest delight was to teach Jessie poetry appreciation. Rube was also one of the "keen" minds of that body of international lawyers who forsook the stately walls of Bomberger for the legal atmosphere of Stine's Penthouse. Collaborated in the infamous "Roast Duck Affaire."

ALMA ELMIRA LUDWIG

Quiet, shy, and the personification of that popular ballad, "A Little Bit Independent", this quadrennial occupant of the Great White House has blossomed into a veritable genius in solving even Dr. Mauchly's brain teasers. And as a mender of broken gadgets, she'd make a great assistant to Burnsy. Hailing from Minersville, she naturally knows all about coal mines and coal crackers, and the prospects of instilling knowledge in the minds of the latter. Besides teaching, she gets a kick out of sewing, knitting, and "cutting up" with second-floor Shreiner.

RACHEL CREIGHTON McAVOY

With eighty per cent of the students claiming the football coach to be the most important member of the faculty, you can imagine the delightful situation in which this lady is placed by being the sister of the aforementioned personage. But Rae carries this honor well. She is unique in the annals of the school by being the only woman ever to struggle through International Law — and by so doing proved herself an able Portia. She is a swell pal, a grand gal, and how she dashed around in that Plymouth.

ALMA E. LUDWIG

RACHEL C. McAVOY

SARAH ELIZABETH McBRIDE

Meet the Baltimore girl, who can't be hurried. Usually up to her ears in work, Beth has spent her college years studying, keeping the "Lantern" on its feet, and writing May pageants. In fact, her intense interest in one May pageant cost her all of ten smackers ($10), but brought its reward in fame. Besides a fondness for writing, Beth likes to dabble in paints; a hobby that has resulted in her turning her room into a veritable picture gallery. She may be a teacher, but like most of that profession would rather be something else—in her case a writer.

ROBERT FRANCIS McLAUGHLIN

Bob is a type of personality, refreshing to meet, for he has successfully resisted being cast into that monotonous mold which identifies one as being "collegiate." Somehow he has discovered a method of bringing his daily actions into accord with a determined goal of living, even though the expression of that goal may waver between the expounding of mathematical principles in a classroom and the expounding of moral precepts from a pulpit. Seriousness of purpose, his watchword, characterized everything from his Y. M. presidency to his cross country captaincy.

GEORGE ROBERT MATTHEWS

Ursinus first saw Matty behind the wheel of a battered Model A, driving in from West Chester every day. But the Ford gave out, or something, and he planted himself in Curtis for the rest of his career. Matty is the Ursinus paradox: big business man of the campus, dabbling in newspaper, suit cleaning, and other rackets; yet he wants to be an M.D. He also took a crack at the part of campus romeo, but those days are gone forever. His last year was spent mainly in a rather futile attempt to show the Demas boys the way of Righteousness.

SARAH WILHELMINA MEINHARDT

Some of our group are easily satisfied with their accomplishments, while others work constantly "just for the heck of it." Willa, who is among the latter group, is ordinarily not faced with difficulties, but sometimes she does meet stupendous problems; for example, whether or not the strength of character required to overcome the inconvenience of long hair is sufficiently balanced by the trouble of keeping short hair neat. "Y" president on the side, Willa majored in that unique science that combines math formulae with Charlie Chase comedies.

GEORGE R. MATTHEWS

FRANK S. MOWERE

DOUGLAS V. O'DELL

FRANK STAUFFER MOWERE

From the suburbs of Phoenixville, that Schuylkill valley metropolis, comes this square-shaped muscle-man and mathematical devotee. He looks like a "wrassler" and spent a winter or two rubbing noses with other matmen in the Bomberger Basement Arena, but gave it up to give his all to the Inter-Dorm Grappling League. But the other fellow smoked fewer cigarettes, and Man-Mountain Mowere went down in defeat. When not absorbing theorems and equations in class, he absorbs literature in that corner of Brodbeck ruled over by the Ohl-Freece-Shibe Corporation.

DOUGLAS VINCENT O'DELL

Pottstown is famous in many respects, but its greatest feat occurred when it gave Doug to the world, and Collegeville. The boy lost no time in preparing for Ursinus, and ever since has been running wild with the scholastic offerings served here. Doug is a hard worker, especially when it comes to developing talent at ping-pong. But if you think that's all he does, follow him some dark night after supper. All we can say is, if he does leave the Schuylkill Valley, he'll leave a trail of broken hearts behind him.

DONALD GORDON OHL

From far up the Susquehanna Trail came this dark-haired scholar, mathematician, ladies' man, and Thespian, in the fall of '32. Having never disappointed the fair young things by not appearing in Rec. Hall, the fair young things have never disappointed Don "when it's Lorelei time at Ursinus." The only complete four-year Brodbeckian remaining among us, Don's roommates include Chemist Shibe and the (we hope) inimitable F. O. Boyesen. Distinguished extra-curricularly by his stage activity, Don plays anything from heroes to dark-eyed villians.

RICHARD BOORSE PEIRCE

After approximately 750 daily journeys between Fort Washington and Collegeville and back again, Commuter Dick is probably about ready to depart forever from the Ursinusian atmosphere. At least, the necessity of cutting classes for weeks at a time to pop rabbits, deer, and anything else at which one can point a gun, will disappear. A devotee to the courses of Bone, Barnard, and Cap'n Boswell's "Showboat", this future business executive, they say, has been using his recently gained knowledge to play and beat the stock market.

DONALD GORDON OHL

RICHARD B. PEIRCE

MILDRED MAY PETERMAN

Introducing "Pete" Peterman, diplomacy personified and the epitome of charm, and according to those who know her best, "the biggest bunch of inconsistencies" they've ever seen. Her traits include an enviable ability to interpret every deed in its best light, a kind of sugar-coated candor, and a friendliness that excludes none. She likes singing, dancing, and evidently red-headed men, besides being ready for fun and adventure at any time. Some say she can be a dare-devil, but she apparently "performs" mainly within the walls of South.

IRVING RAPPOPORT

With a Diamond Jim complex that refuses to let him pass up a chance, however slim, this Atlantic City satellite goes in for everything from checkers, chess, and monopoly, to games with even greater odds against you—such as playing Doc's machines. A one-time Weekly news-hound, Rap evidently deserted the amateurish ranks for sports reporting jobs on Philadelphia papers. Housed in the Dog-House for the last two years, where he went to recuperate from the strain of passing Anglo-Saxon, Rap, a hidden light on campus, becomes a radiant beam Saturdays in Pottstown.

MILDRED M. PETERMAN

NANCY C. PUGH

NANCY CAROLINE PUGH

King Herb having departed for law school, Nance went into training for wifely arts by residing with a faculty member, than whom there could have been no better instructor. She blossomed forth on the stage as senior play lead, entered actresses' Hall of Fame by saying "Damn." Although she had troubles managing women's debate teams, she achieved greater success managing the debate coach. Having so ably cared for Herbie, Nancy was chosen Lorelei head to lure all laddies to the social event of the Ursinus sirens.

LYNDELL R. R. REBER

All in a rush, and often with some place to go, that's Lindy. She comes from Royersford (which she visits during vacations), sleeps in South, and lives in the library, where she's known to be indispensable to those seniors who visit the place for the first time. The last word in efficiency, she likes things spic and span, except for her notebook which actually spatters when it falls. With a hobby for giving facials and aims directed toward national "Y" work, Lindy stands first, last, always, and then some for Phi Psi and Co.

IRVING RAPPOPORT

JAMES EVAN REESE

Jimmy, born with a miner's pick in one hand and a sheet of music in the other, still retains some of those coal region traits. As a freshman, he won fame as nephew of of his renowned Uncle Jack. A hopeful M.D. and Brownback's "little man", Jim still finds time to devote to Lynnewood, to the latest popular music, and to worrying over Frosh rule-breakers, the latter being the "necessary consequent" of his election to Student Council Presidency. We may excuse any peculiarities by remembering he rooms with the harassed editor of this picture book.

JAMES EVAN REESE

F. LACHMAN

FRANK LACHMAN RINEHART

"Clarabelle" "Bigbee" Rinehart descended on us from Lower Merion to enter Derr's Hall of Fame after four years of grid battles, weight heavings, and residence in the dens of the East Wing. From a Frosh courtman, "Lachy" has advanced to the position of Senior courting man, and co-ruler of the Shreiner Empire. He is outstanding for: sartorial flashes, rooming with "O. C.", surviving the ordeal of the Phys. Ed. Group, and yearly visits to the new dorms early in February to make up for lost time.

DORIS ROACH

"Roachie", a veritable dynamo of energy, has been likened to lightning on the hockey fields and to a whirlwind on the basketball court; in short, a phenomenon of nature in the flesh, rewarded by two major sports' captaincies. The only time Doris lacks speed is 7:00 a. m. when her action suggests rather the motivity of a tropical calm. Although called "fickle, unfaithful, and disloyal" as a Soph by those who dubbed her "Flit", she has proved herself quite the contrary. Beneath a happy-go-lucky exterior, she conceals a rarely noticeable seriousness.

WOODROW WILSON ROBBINS

Emphatically a personal pronouner who has risen from an innocent back-Woodstown, N. J., sand burr to Free-land's penthouse, Woody's dormitory career was initiated by a series of wrestling matches with "Little Man" Schaffer and the appointment of Guardian-at-Large for Lethargical Charles. A mathematician with chemistry as his hobby, this Beta Sig pillar and Maples Don Juan represents an embryo DuPont laboratory technician with lots of ambition and an infective line. For further advice on the latter, address W. C. S. T. C. or Maples—they'll tell you.

DORIS ROACH

WOODROW ROBBINS

RUTH ROTHENBERGER

SIDNEY SACKS

RUTH HELEN ROTHENBERGER

An ambitious young lady is this, travelling daily from Pennsburg, another of the many Perkiomen Valley metropolises. This early morning journey may have something to do with that inexhaustible supply of "pep", necessary for her gymnastic gyrations, her hockey field and basketball court maneuvers, and her "whistle-tooting" in nearby high school contests. Besides these athletic accomplishments, Ruthie manages to keep forty flighty feminine day students under her wing and add her bit to the Phi Psi majority of the Women's Student Council.

SIDNEY SACKS

Whether his name had anything to do with it, "Sacksy" gave vent to his athletic inclinations by devoting himself to the diamond, holding down the third base sack, bagging flies in the outfield, and always fearing he might have to don the mask behind the plate in an emergency. One of the rowdies who keep the day study in constant turmoil, he spends his leisure time there thinking up ways to prolong Boswell's unprescribed lectures on the evils of Democratic government, the New Deal, and taxes on "aar", in an effort to avoid questioning on the day's assignment.

EDWARD RICHARD SCHAEFFER

More than one class has been relieved of its dull monotony when Ed received a startling flash of insight, usually because the particular wisdom which issued forth revealed a glaring oversight. But Ed has Missourian qualities, too. No lab instructor can tell him what's beneath a microscope unless he sees it personally. Whatever his enthusiasm at the moment it is always genuine, whether it be test tubes, cells, social conditions among the poor, or ping-pong battles with his confreres of the Day Study.

HENRY A. WOODROW SCHAEFFER

Heinrich, a product of the coal-region Schaeffers, a campus five-day man, and close friend of Martha, spent four trying years in Derr trying to carry on reform work—all, of course, in preparation for a liberalist career in the ministry. A pursuer of the art and knowledge of government under Mr. Man, Henry rounded out his education with weekly performances at the console, by lending his hefty tenor to the Choir and Glee Club, and finally by spending four years as roommate of none other than "Sweepy."

EDWARD R. SCHAEFFER

HENRY A. SCHAEFFER

CHARLES JOSEPH SCHAFFER

This near-Olympic star of the parallel and horizontal bars will be remembered for those dazzling physical feats which earned for him a national ranking among gymnasts. Although his knowledge of metaphysics was about in inverse proportion to his gymnastic skill, that little inconvenience did not prevent his being number one man with the philosophy professor. But on the soccer field, his elusive and clever tactics that often proved the difference between a successful boot and a miss won for him the captaincy of the booters.

MABEL VIRGINIA SHELLEY

As a product of Lancaster county with a naturally acquired taste for food of all varieties, Mabel has a particular weakness for Scheitz's candy. But lacking all else, she is not averse to a sandwich of plain American glue or chocolate wafers filled with cold cream. Handicapped at the start by a "phys-edder's" life, she managed to regain dignity and composure by changing to Mr. Man's course. Her future points to social service; and since charity begins at home, "Mabes" spent four years mending and pressing clothes for the too-busy, and finding "eats" for the much too-hungry.

CHARLES J. SCHAFFER

ELMER W. J. SCHMITT

ELMER WILLIAM JOHN SCHMITT

That Elmer is waging a successful battle against the fatality of religious dogmatism and piety can be predicted on the basis of a "not-proper" article once published in the "Lantern." It ended thus: "Oh, just for the hell of it." He realizes also that religion is not coldly intellectual and has, therefore, sought for himself the exact meaning of Chapter 13, I Corinthians, with a former Ursinus poetess. It can truthfully be said that Schmitt has never been at a loss for words, but his puns were—oh! so bad!

PAUL RICKERT SHELLEY

Paul, from Pennsburg on the Perk, paddled down to Collegeville to pursue his pre-pastoral preparation. The collegiate atmosphere did its work well and developed an accomplished Demosthenes, Caruso, and Bakerite. In addition, he ranks as the greatest of all Bombergian N. Y. A. window-washers. Gene's favorite "stooge" when requests regarding religion in general, and Schwenkfelders in particular, were in order, "Brother" Shelly, also spent many hours adding to his knowledge of the wiles of women with a lovable lass in Trappe.

MABEL V. SHELLEY

PAUL RICKERT SHELLEY

WILLIAM J. SHIBE, Jr.

CHARLES C. SMITH

WILLIAM JOHN SHIBE, JR.

Bill, a Chem-Bi student who is really a Chem-Bi "student", heads Doc Sturgis' lab force, and all classes in Chemistry as well. He's the fellow we like to look up the night before the final in a scientific course, outstanding mainly for the incomprehensibility of a mass of equations. One of the few Brodbeck bachelors, he would live a quiet life were it not for the never-ending stream of noise that blares forth from the Ohl-Shibe radio. Related to a family that made baseball famous in Philadelphia, Bill remains a loyal supporter of that sport.

CHARLES COLTON SMITH

Behold our one and only true-blooded Connecticut Yankee, who, socially, seemed to be God's gift to "Little Women" and who will always be remembered as a faithful frequenter of "Fissel's Frivolous Fracasess." As a terpsichorean, he gave us his interpretation of the "round and around" idea long before it was set to music, and established a non-stop endurance record surpassing all. However, his first love being the stage, "Reds'" accurate observations of professional plays and players proved invaluable and made him "tops" as one of "Reggie's Reliable Riggers."

THELMA VIRGINIA SMITH

Coming from a town that reminds us of a Swiss mountaineer's goat call (Yoe). "Tim" is one of the few York Countyites who doesn't pronounce "shower", "shawr"; or "fire", "faar." She once dwelt in Sprinkle in the days when Sprinkle held its own, and Nursie Maybee, too. Upon transferring to Glenwood, she rapidly rose to the enviable position of the "People's Choice." Her list of accomplishments reveal a mastery of social studies, the art of never being caught signed out improperly, and the debater's diplomatic technique.

WILLIAM HENRY SOLLY, JR.

A future minister, Solly is one of the more serious-minded students; however, he has his moments, and the demon Bridge early caught him in her clutches. Bill's long latent dramatic abilities have in the past two years helped Reggie's productions more than a little; but to show his versatility, he also did K. P. duty in Lt. Price's Soup Kitchen. His greatest joy came on passing that bugbear of the late lamented Classic Group—Doc Baker's epic Greek course. He likes bull-sessioning, listening to Skippy rave, and visiting Philadelphia.

THELMA V. SMITH

GORDON W. SPANGLER

MARK REBER STOUDT

GORDON WASHINGTON SPANGLER

The itinerant personality from York, who started in Freeland and climaxed in Brodbeck, Gordy brags of being one of the twelve noteworthy ————? of Ursinus Campus, being an exponent of Demas and proud of it. Apparently a woman-hater for two and a half years, he finally found a nice South Hall Titian and immediately became an ardent hill-and-daler ex-officio. Gordy boasts of successfully organizing the Delta Mu Sigma Auxiliary, of being one of the few who told P. P. Price where to head in, and of triumphantly withstanding Little Caesar's stories for two years.

MARK REBER STOUDT

Down from Leesport and the midst of the Berks County Dutch, came this dark-haired, gay "Lothario", Mark "Looie" "Buster" Stoudt, General Farley's unofficial mid-night mail clerk. A staunch supporter of anything musical, "Looie" became the first famous Duke Hartenstine. Another of Mr. Man's stand-bys, Mark hopes to use his charm as an aid to success in law. The training he received as "Premier Danseuse" in the darkest corners of the Library After-Dinner Clubhouse proved very valuable when he became impresario and official "white tie and tails" man of the Senior Ball.

JOHN A. TAYLOR, JR.

From the mushy marshes of Jersey to the fertile Ursinus campus came this ruddy-cheeked, bespectacled smoothie. With his little blue Chevy, radio, heater, and all, he found no trouble in crashing into the social "400" of Trooper, Norristown and the Main Line, while never neglecting the fluttering feminine hearts on campus. As a Business Administrator, he managed the funds of the Curtain Club as skilfully as he took care of a certain vivacious Vassarite and the senior-widowed women of Ursinus—at the same time.

CLYDE LEON TRUMBORE

"Lefty", the pride of Jing's twirlers, the Apes, and South Hall, is the man with a joke perpetually up his sleeve. Characterized by a wry smile and a type of humor all his own, this Souderton protege leaves a trail of fun behind him wherever he goes. With a flair for anything athletic, "Lefty" tried his hand at all sports and excelled on the diamond and soccer field. With a similar flair for a good time, he wove his way into the hearts of the "fair" co-eds, and upon occasion, in and out of the by-ways of Norristown, sometime around dawn.

JOHN A. TAYLOR, Jr.

C. LEON TRUMBORE

L. MONTGOMERY

EVELYN IRENE WEBBER

Transferring from a Maryland College three years ago, "Evie" was introduced on campus by her extraordinary linguistic ability, both in and out of class. Disagreeing with her contention that her accent was Southern, the campus stoutly maintained it was distinctly Rehrersburgian—a point never decided. First, last, and always for Glenwood and Omega Chi, "Evie" did not neglect her enjoyments—her piano recitals and her visits to Ralph's, Doc's, and other places—for so slight a thing as a college education.

LLOYD MONTGOMERY WEIDNER, JR.

Monty "Gable" "Gilbert" Weidner, the unbeatable actor without the artist's temperament, who, as a freshman, surpassed the mighty Alspach in succumbing to a certain South Hall siren. The only fence-perching hill-and-daler to boast his picture in the RUBY, he finally found an even less fatiguing form of recreation in lying on the bed listening to swing bands play "Double Trouble." Rooming with Brown was a handicap to begin with, so he joined Demas in self-defense. If Hollywood fails to "find" him, Monty will follow the footsteps of his favorite heart-throb.

DOROTHEA SENER WIEAND

Handicapped by an illness which drew her out of school for the better part of a year, Dottie is completing college a year after her original class has departed. With a flair for May Pageants — maidens' dancing, worry about the weather and all the rest—she has become Mrs. Sheeder's right-hand woman. In between worries of this sort and others evolving from her superior position among Clamer's aristocratic younger set, Dot spends much of her time running around in the Phi Psi taxi, now a Plymouth coupe.

PAUL ELLSWORTH WILLIAMS

This devotee to the Cause of Science is himself one of those phenomena which throws Science into confusion, for he is not readily classifiable. No college worth its salt can afford to be without his type, best described as an unstudious scholar. Long months of letter writing to "Marjorie" gave him his latest claim to fame as the "Passionate Penman of the Parsonage." For three years the name, Williams, has been synonymous with the deluge from Free-land's portico on the nights of pajama parades.

DOROTHEA S. WIEAND

PAUL E. WILLIAMS

JESSIE F. WILSON

ARNOLD F. WYNNE

JESSIE FRANCES WILSON

When first faced with the necessity of selecting a college, Jessie chose Wilson to simplify matters. On transferring to Ursinus, she was given a "big brother" because her name was so suggestive of masculinity; but the passport of "Jessie Wilson from Wilson" later established her sex and increased her acquaintances. Official Omega Chian "spitchmaker", she roomed in Maples, but spent most of her time becoming familiar with walks and haunts unknown to most of us—after the peaceful settlement of several Derr Hall feuds.

ARNOLD FRANCIS WYNNE

The man with two famous nicknames—"Schnosz" and "Ed", "Schnosz's" fame rests, among other things, on: four years in Derr's penthouse; Homer, his roommate and constant sidekick; his being, next to "Twinkletoes", one of the best little "truckers" on campus, both alone and accompanied. He likes: to make wise-cracks, to laugh, to go places and do things, and to keep the "Go-a-Little Club" active, morning, noon, and night. He is reported to have dropped courses in his senior year to take up correspondence with alumna "Queenie."

ROBERT BRUCE ZERBE

Neologisms need to be invented for an adequate write-up here. Freeland's Kaiser, excommunicated for one year to Supra-Petit apartments, returned with better stories than ever. A Zerbe Saga is something not to be missed. A politician of note, a whirlwind with winsome women, a pinochler, and a friend of Dad's—this is Bruce. After the incident of the Lancaster Lass, he resolved never to be caught in the nuptial net; but a Pearl in the Minersville oyster snared him. "Jewels have turned the heads of Pirates and Kings", so he excuses his present status.

RACHEL ELIZABETH MACKLEY

Acquiring an aloofness as an off-campus freshman that prevented her from mastering her soph-year roommate's name for a month, Rae slowly began to unbend; and in her junior year was nicknamed "Sociability" because of her rather friendly tendencies. Her favorite rendezvous is the kitchen where she goes to seek peace after a racking "eight" in the Comedy of Statistics. More than usually camera-shy, Rae has a weakness for flowers and poetry, the latter accompanied by tears, while collecting recipes and menus is her often tantalizing pastime.

THOMAS P. GLASSMOYER
Editor-in-Chief

THE 1936 RUBY may be said to represent the fortieth anniversary of yearbook publication at Ursinus, the first RUBY having appeared way back in 1896. With every editor trying to outdo the efforts of previous editors, the task of putting out a RUBY has grown to immense proportions. This year the staff has had the dual task of trying to maintain the standards of the past two years, and at the same time end the year with a balanced budget.

In an attempt to maintain past standards, we have tried to remedy those things which the public has pointed out as defects. Thus, by steering clear of both over-converatism and over-intimacy, we have sought the middle course. In this way, the 1936 RUBY is different, being, in effect, a compromise between the old and the new. Formality has been retained in the opening sections of the book, especially in the class layouts, while the organization and athletic sections have been planned along the lines established in the 1935 "intimate" RUBY.

As for the financial end, it was found necessary to cut our expenses somewhat in order to keep within the sources of income. New ideas were also tried in an effort to increase these sources, the most notable being a reduction in the price of the book to $4.00 for all orders placed before January 15th.

As for the rest, there is not much to say. The volume itself is before you, and only your reaction can be taken as an indication of whether the staff has done its work well.

FROM the time of the first issue of the Weekly on September 26, 1902, until the present time, the keynote of its existence has been development and improvement. The past twelve months have been no exception. Continual efforts have been made on the part of the staff to improve the paper as to appearance, content, interest, and value to the students and alumni.

The editorial policy instituted two years ago has been continued with some minor variations. Editorials appearing in the columns of the Weekly have been the consensus of opinion of the editor and his associates—Kermit Harbaugh, Abe Lipkin, Eugene Shelley, Bradford Stone, and Dorothy Witmer—rather than the individual viewpoints of the editor-in-chief. Attempting to meet the criticism that college editorials are too narrow and childlike, regular consideration has been given to social, political, and economic problems of the world at large. On local matters, a certain amount of criticism and suggestion has been brought to bear on campus situations. Continuity and consistency has been the aim.

Two new columns have been added. Believing students to be interested in college news generally, "Campi Currents" was begun, setting forth in brief the outstanding events on other campuses. The other, "Rambling at Random", is a personal column of speculative and philosophical nature covering a wide range of subjects.

The system of issue assistants, begun several years ago, has been made a workable plan during the past twelve months. Students are trained for advance editorial work by constant association with the make-up and technical side of the paper.

The Weekly has been fortunate in being free from the ban of faculty restraint. Both faculty advisor and Board of Managers have limited their activities to those of advice and guidance. In this way, a paper representing more truly the real student viewpoint has been developed.

One serious loss has been sustained—"The Tower Window." This column, written by President Omwake, was considered an important and interesting contribution from the head of the administration. It ceased to appear over a year ago when Dr. Omwake was forced by illness to retire from activity. His subsequent resignation has made the discontinuance of the column permanent. The Ursinus Weekly pays tribute to one of its most ardent supporters and greatest benefactors.

THREE issues of Ursinus' literary magazine were published under the editorship of Elizabeth McBride. A Christmas number and a special commencement number in June were outstanding, while the March publication contained a prize essay chosen from a large group submitted in a familiar essay contest.

Historical articles commemorated the four hundredth anniversary of the first translation of the Bible into English and the two thousandth anniversary of the birth of Horace. Short stories, poems, character sketches, reminiscences, and essays dealing with subjects related to the collegiate world again had their place in the magazine. Several new writers with commendable talent were uncovered during the course of the year. Contributions were accepted from any member of the student body who desired to submit manuscripts.

James Russo conducted the business affairs of the Lantern and augmented his circulation staff to increase the efficiency of that department.

Grizzly Gridder

THE third year of publication for the Grizzly Gridder, Ursinus' official football program, was one of continued improvement. This magazine, sponsored by the Varsity Club and printed for each home game, was widely considered one of the best programs of 1935 in smaller college circles.

The book is more than a mere football program. In addition to the usual squad statistics and pictures, the Grizzly Gridder is marked by pertinent editorials, articles of interesting information and gossip, humorous stories and verse, as well as accounts of the other fall sports of the College. As such it serves as an interesting and comprehensive sports magazine.

The main improvement of the 1935 book was the new style, smart cover design, featuring the Ursinus bear in photographic style, appearing from page one through an aperture in the cover. The outside pages were attractively colored and cleverly designed. The printing in general, and of the pictures in particular, was excellent throughout.

The Gridder appeared three times during the 1935 football season. The first issue came out on October 12 for the LaSalle game. The second, commemorating Old Timers' Day, appeared on October 19 for the contest with Muhlenberg. The most successful from the financial angle, was the October 26 issue for the Albright game. On this occasion a complete sell-out was experienced. For all games the program was sold for fifteen cents to students the nights before games, and for twenty-five cents at the gate. The profits realized on the magazine are divided between the staff and the Varsity Club.

Freshman Handbook

DOROTHY A. WITMER edited the seventeenth edition of the Freshman Handbook, copies of which were distributed to the members of the incoming class during the summer previous to their matriculation. The publication was sponsored by the Y. M.-Y. W. C. A. and was dedicated to Dr. Marcus C. Old.

A change was made in the cover from the elaborate ones of former years to a type more suitable for a handbook. Included in the book were pictures of outstanding students and members of the administration, descriptions of campus clubs and activities, and athletic schedules, in addition to general information designed to orient the freshman during the first semester.

Theodore Boysen served as business manager and ably handled the financial arrangements for the book. He co-operated with the Y. W. C. A. in distributing the books to the freshmen.

Eugene Shelley and Sieber Pancoast assisted in the editorial and business work, respectively.

Tau Kappa Alpha

TAU KAPPA ALPHA is the older of the two national fraternities represented on the Ursinus Campus. Organized nationally in 1908, the Ursinus Chapter is now marking its eleventh anniversary.

The purpose of the fraternity is the recognition of excellence in public speaking and the promotion of intercollegiate debating. Membership, by invitation only, is extended upon fulfillment of certain requirements which include participation in at least three intercollegiate debates as representatives of Ursinus. Both men and women are eligible for membership. New members are formally admitted at the annual spring initiation ceremony and banquet held during the last month of every school year. The last of these occasions was June 8, 1935, and commemorated the tenth anniversary of the Ursinus chapter. The program was unique in that several charter members of the local chapter were included among the speakers.

In addition to providing an impetus to local debating activities, the Ursinus Chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha gives the College national representation in the fraternity. Dr. Elizabeth B. White served in the capacity of faculty advisor for the society for the past year during the leave of Prof. Harvey L. Carter.

Webster Forensic Club

THE WEBSTER FORENSIC CLUB, as the men's debating society is known, selects the members of the men's debating teams and sponsors men's intercollegiate debating activities on the Ursinus campus. All men students are eligible to membership and from this group elections are made to Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic society.

In pursuance of the regular schedule, two questions were debated during the 1936 season, the first two choices of the Debating Association of Pennsylvania Colleges. These questions were: "Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to override by a two-thirds majority vote decisions of the Supreme Court declaring statutes unconstitutional", and "Resolved, that the Constitution should be amended to enable Congress to control intra-state commerce." Charles Wallick represented Ursinus at the Association conference held in Harrisburg during this fall.

Dr. James L. Boswell served as coach during Professor Harvey L. Carter's leave of absence. Both the Oregon and Oxford plans were used throughout the year.

Women's Debating Club

THE WOMEN'S DEBATING CLUB is necessarily broader than its title suggests because it must serve two purposes. It must first offer a basis from which come those who participate in intercollegiate contests; it must also present opportunities for training in self-expression and debating for those who are interested in obtaining practice in argumentation but do not desire to enter intercollegiate competition.

The Club meets fortnightly at the different women's halls. This year the meetings have been less formal than previously, since forum discussions have often followed the assigned presentations by specific members. The programs consist of consideration of a current event, a debate, a talk by an outside speaker, or some humorous event. The meetings close with a social period.

The question which the varsity teams have used this past season is: "Resolved, that Congress should be empowered to override, by a two-thirds vote, decisions of the Supreme Court declaring acts of Congress unconstitutional." The girls who participated in intercollegiate debates are: Elizabeth Ballinger, Elizabeth Benscoter, Sara Standing: Wingate, Basow, Ballinger, Benscoter, Roth, Schlaybach, and Rothenberger. Seated: Goldberg, Beck, Roberts, Pugh, Evans, Gring, Seitz, Baker, Shelley, Harley. On the floor: Ennis, Keyser, Witmer, and Whitaker.

Ennis, Gertrude Goldberg, Mildred Olp, Nancy Pugh, Florence L. Roberts, Janet Snyder, and Dorothy Witmer.

The opposing schools included Rosemont, Penn State, Lebanon Valley, Western Maryland, Gettysburg, Elizabethtown, Drexel, Millersville, Shippensburg, East Stroudsburg, and Kutztown.

Dr. Elizabeth B. White was chosen by the Club as coach and faculty advisor. The total membership numbers thirty-six.

WITH ever-increasing activity, the Curtain Club, Ursinus' dramatic society, passed through another successful year, marked by the presentation of two stage hits, "Aren't We All" and "Hay Fever." These two productions, offered as the annual Zwinglian and Schaff Anniversary plays, represent the peak of dramatic activity on the campus.

This Club, which ranks among the most interesting and most worth-while of Ursinus' extracurricular organizations, was founded in 1930 through a reorganization of the Dramatic Club of former years. Membership is of two kinds: general try-outs for probation membership are held in the fall of the year; full membership is granted only after a part has been taken in one of the plays presented by the Club.

A large share of the credit for the success of the Club's productions, both financially and artistically, is due Dr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald, the coaches and honorary members of the organization. Their careful and skillful direction of all plays for the past few years has resulted in a long list of stage successes, including "The Firebrand", "Death Takes a Holiday", "Double Door", "The Young Idea", and "The Black Flamingo."

Participation in Curtain Club productions is rewarded by election to membership in Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity.

"AREN'T WE ALL", a three-act comedy by Frederick Lonsdale, was selected by the Curtain Club for the annual Zwing Play, and was presented before a record breaking audience on the evening of May Day, May 11, 1935. This production which centered about a typical group of English people of the upper levels of society, differed from the usual run of Ursinus productions in that it had very little plot, but depended for its success on its abundance of humor and sparkling lines; for this reason it was very well adapted to a college stage.

A quotation from the review in the Weekly for May 13 will be sufficient indication of its popularity. "Although the play enjoyed the advantage of an experienced cast, the honors of the evening undoubtedly belonged to Montgomery Weidner as that unwearied lady's man and wise father, Lord Grenham, and to Dorothy Patterson in the role of the exuberant and thoroughly delightful Lady Frinton. . . . They were ably seconded by Donald Ohl in the part of Willie Tatham and Troupiere Sipe as Margot Tatham, his wife. These two actors had the difficult task of carrying the serious situations of the plot and the emotional interest, which they succeeded in doing quite well, particularly in the third act."

The complications of the plot were caused by a Miss Kitty Lake, played by Caroline Rhoads, making her debut on the Ursinus stage. An amusing comedy relief was secured through the actions of Lord Grenham's sister, Mrs. Lynton, and her husband, the Rev. Mr. Ernest Lynton.

This polished English comedy, written for Cyril Maude's last appearance in this country, was first produced in London at the Globe Theatre in 1923, and shortly afterwards at the Gaiety Theatre in New York.

"Aren't We All"

THE SCHAFF ANNIVERSARY PLAY, "Hay Fever", a three-act comedy written by that celebrated English actor and playwright, Noel Coward, was presented on the night of Fathers' Day, October 26, 1935. This clever and witty comedy delighted an audience of several hundred students, parents, alumni, and friends of the College who had gathered here for this annual event.

The play deals with the eccentricities of the Bliss family, gifted with artistic abilities and artistic temperaments, and their effect upon a group of comparative strangers who have been invited down for a quiet week-end at Cookham. Characterized by rather meager, though delightful, action, "Hay Fever" necessitated the selection of an especially well-balanced cast.

Again from the Ursinus Weekly's review, we read: "The play is built around the personality of Judith Bliss, the mother of the family and an almost retired actress, to whom her husband and children constantly play up. This rather difficult and exacting part was ably and enjoyably played by Alice Plunkett, who again demonstrated her versatile skill in the playing of character parts. . . . Ably supporting Miss Plunkett and almost deserving equal praise were Dorothy Peoples and Robert Deen as Sorel and Simon Bliss, respectively. Their work was consistently good throughout and especially fine in the first act, in which they set the tempo of the whole drama. . . . The parts of the bewildered Jackie Coryton and the blushing and docile Sandy Tyrell were acted by Anne Colsher and Ward MacNair, both newcomers on the Ursinus stage and both actors to be congratulated on their debuts. . . . The professional atmosphere of the play may be ascribed largely to the coaching of Dr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sbbald, whose success as mentors of the Curtain Club in the course of a few years has become almost proverbial."

Alpha Psi Omega

ALPHA PSI OMEGA is one of the two national fraternities represented on the Ursinus campus. This society is an honorary dramatic fraternity, designed to give recognition to those members of the Curtain Club who have taken an outstanding part in the dramatic productions presented by that body.

The local chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, known as the Delta Tau chapter, was founded at Ursinus only a year ago with twenty-three charter members, three of whom are still in college, Montgomery Weidner, Elizabeth Krusen, and Donald Ohl, all seniors. To be elected to membership, a person must have participated in at least two major Curtain Club plays, have served on at least three committees, or have participated in the one play and have served on two committees. The elections are held once a year, usually in the spring after the annual Zwing play has been given. Membership now numbers thirteen students, while Dr. Sibbald acts as faculty advisor.

Besides being a means of giving recognition for excellence in the dramatic art, Alpha Psi Omega serves other functions. It carries with it certain privileges of extreme importance to any dramatic organization, among which is the opportunity to get reduced royalties on plays presented. The Curtain Club officers, if they are members of the fraternity, serve as officers of the fraternity.

Campus

Organizations

IN its seventh year of existence, this body continued its main function of arranging the social calendar. Every organization must apply to the Council for its approval before it can secure a date on the calendar. The success of its work can be seen in the fact that for two years there have been no serious conflicts in the extra-curricular activities on campus. The Council also supervises the Recreation Hall.

The Council is made up of one representative from every campus organization, together with five representatives from the faculty. Prof. Brownback has been president for the past five years.

THE COMMITTEE ON STUDENT EXPENDITURES is now completing its third year of operation, having been organized in 1933 after the plan had been investigated by the Faculty. Its purpose is to supervise all student organizations of the College that receive and spend money.

The plan of the Committee is as follows: All student organizations with money relations are required to keep adequate records of accounts which shall at all times be open to inspection. The books of these organizations are audited twice a year. In addition, any organization may be required, at the request of the Committee, to present a budget of proposed income and expenditure for approval.

In the short time that the group has been in existence, it has taken definite steps concerning financial policies of the campus organizations. The Committee has limited the price of formal dances to $3.50 and of informal dances to $1.50. It has also taken on the responsibility for the securing and issuing of all tickets for those organizational functions for which admission is charged.

The group consists of three faculty members, appointed annually by the President of the College, and three students. The undergraduate members are selected, one each, from the Men's Student Council, the Women's Student Council, and the Council on Student Activities.

Men's Student Council

THE MEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL, subjected to an unusual amount of criticism, passed through a critical year because of the large number of disciplinary cases of a more serious nature with which it had to deal. In the opinion of the majority of students, however, it performed its task well by effecting the necessary adjustments and demonstrated adequately the need for such an organization.

Besides these special duties, the Council continued its ordinary functions of a social and governmental character. Under the presidency of James E. Reese, the organization united with the Women's Student Council in sponsoring the Freshman Reception, the Old Timers' Day Dance on October 19, 1935, and the Lorelei Dance on February 15, 1936. The governmental duties centered mainly about the regulation of freshman men's customs, and prescribing penalties for any violations.

The new constitutional changes, which went into effect this year, reduced the number of council members from thirteen to twelve. Profs. J. Harold Brownback and J. Lynn Barnard acted as faculty advisors to the group.

THE W. S. G. A., which consists of all the women students of the College, is the feminine counterpart of the men's governing body. The actual work is done by a Council, composed of the officers of the Association and representatives of the senior class, the junior class, the freshman class, and the girls' day study.

The Council's functions closely parallel those of the Men's Student Council. In the matter of discipline, it publishes a rule book for women and conducts an annual revision of the rules. The organization also appoints a Central Nominating Committee to supervise all major elections, an Advisory Committee to perform the necessary function of orienting freshmen, a Women's Dormitory Committee, and a Booster Committee. In addition, this body co-operates with the Men's Student Council in sponsoring various social activities, which this year included the Old Timers' Day Dance, the Lorelei Dance, and the Freshman Reception.

As a special project, the Association this year worked with the College in the development of Clamer Hall. In addition, a gift was given for small but necessary improvements in the other girls' halls in possession of the College.

Young Men's and Women's

UNDER the presidencies of Wilhelmina Meinhardt and Robert McLaughlin, the Christian Associations again joined their forces in sponsoring a balanced religious and recreational program for the development of Christian personality. "Big Sisters and Brothers" were assigned the freshmen to help induct them into the rigors of college life, and handbooks were distributed to each. A reception was tendered the incoming class during freshman week by the Y's in conjunction with the Student Councils.

Sunday evening vesper services were conducted, sometimes by students, sometimes by invited faculty members, and other times by ministers of neighboring churches. Bi-monthly meetings were devoted to a variety of topics, and guest speakers included Dr. John A. Cooper, Mr. Russell "Jing" Johnson, Mr. William F. Philip, and a member of the church for Friends. A piano recital by Dr. Philip H. Goepp was a highlight of the season.

During the Christmas season, a German Christmas party was conducted by Rev. Kriebel of the Palm Schwenkfelder Church. The annual candlelight Communion Service was attended by almost the entire student body. Dr. John Lentz and Dr. Wharton A. Kline were the ministrants. A party in the gymnasium closed the Christmas celebration. This consisted of a stage entertainment followed by dancing, and was arranged by the Y's and Student Councils.

Two delegates were sent to the Y. M. C. A. state convention at Lebanon Valley, while four women and three men represented Ursinus at the conference of the Student Christian Movement at Buck Hill Falls. This gathering had for its theme, "Religious Faith and Social Action."

February 25, 26, and 27, the Rev. Dr. Dobbs F. Ehlman of Indianapolis, a graduate of the College, was here to lead the Religious Emphasis Week activities. He delivered three addresses, one during the chapel period, and also held individual conferences.

A committee from both Y's was appointed to co-operate with the Brotherhood of St. Paul in making a study of co-operatives, a movement championed by Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, the great Japanese Christian, who is this year touring the United States.

THE INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB has been in existence for seven years, having been formally organized in April, 1929. Its purpose is to bring together those students interested in international affairs in order to stimulate intelligent discussion on the same.

The Club holds fortnightly meetings at which time several of the members speak to the group on current topics of interest. During the past year, a number of meetings have been devoted to a consideration of the Italo-Ethiopian situation, as well as to the part played by Germany, Japan, and other countries in world affairs today. These discussions covered not only political conditions, but social and economic as well.

As a guest of the sister organization of Albright College, the group attended an open forum held at that school last December. Dr. C. Douglas Booth, a member of the Geneva Institute of International Relations, spoke on "The Removal of Trade Barriers — a Condition of Recovery and Peace."

Dr. Elizabeth B. White is the faculty advisor of the club, which numbers about thirty members.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF ST. PAUL was organized a number of years ago by Dr. Good, a professor at Ursinus at that time. Its purpose is to bring together those students planning to enter the ministerial or missionary fields and to help them in their future work.

Deputation work is carried on by the organization at various times throughout the College year. On these occasions, the members of the Brotherhood visit churches in the vicinity and aid in conducting the services. Approximately fifteen such visits were made during the past eight months.

Monthly meetings are also held, on which occasions members speak on different phases of a certain theme that is chosen as the topic for the evening. Occasionally outside speakers are secured, and this is always done at the time of the annual banquet which usually occurs some time in May. At the present time, Dr. Russell D. Sturgis is the faculty advisor.

English Club

THE ENGLISH CLUB is made up of thirteen sophomore, junior, and senior girls who are interested in English literature and in reading good books. Regular meetings are held fortnightly on Monday nights at the home of Dr. Norman E. McClure, who is the sponsor.

The main object of the organization is to emphasize the joy of reading as a delightful pastime and to acquaint its members with the best books and most outstanding authors. The dues are used to buy new books which, throughout the year, are circulated among the members, are read, discussed, and reported on; and at the end of the year, each member receives one of these books for his own library. The type of literature is not limited; biography, short stories, and novels are all selected, thereby meeting the specific likes of all.

Some of the books that have been purchased this year are: "Uplands", "Mary, Queen of Scots", "Bar of Delights", "Precious Bane", "Beautiful End", "Crump Folk Going Home", "Splendid Fairing", "Trumpet in the Dust", "A Few Foolish Ones", "Far Away and Long Ago", "Lonely Plough", and "Jessamy Bride."

French Club

IN the second year of its existence, the French Club has continued its work, through its regular monthly meetings, of stimulating the interest of the language students of the College by varied programs centered about some aspect of the French language or of French literature.

The meetings are held on the second Tuesday of every month, and all conversation carried on at that time is supposed to be in French. On occasion, an outside speaker is secured, although the Club has had only one such guest during the year 1935-36, Dr. Mollier of Trappe. Many members of the Club also took advantage of the opportunity to attend Walter Hampden's presentation of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" when French and dramatic students made the trip early in February.

J. M. Anders Pre-Medical Society

THE PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY, named after a noted Philadelphia physician and member of the Board of Directors of the College, is an organization designed for students of the Chemistry-Biology Group interested in the medical profession. Meetings are held from time to time on which occasions well-known physicians or medical men speak.

In the course of the past year the Society has presented the following men: Dr. M. J. Oppenheimer of the Department of Physiology at Temple Medical School, speaking on "Glandular Control of Menstruation and Pregnancy"; Dr. B. Griskin, head of experimental and research medicine at Temple Medical School, who lectured on "Cancer"; Dr. W. Pearson, Dean of Hahnemann Medical College, who spoke on "The History of Medicine"; Dr. George Whelan, bronchoscopist for the Philadelphia General Hospital, who talked on "Bronchoscopy and Esophagy"; Dr. Jenkins of Norristown, who spoke on "Appendectomy"; and Dr. Walter Krause, Superintendent of the Pennhurst Hospital, who described his work there.

Membership in the organization is limited to juniors and seniors. Members are classed as active and non-active; only those retaining a scholastic average of "B" can remain active. Prof. J. Harold Brownback is the faculty advisor.

FOUNDED in December of 1932, under the supervision of Dr. Russell D. Sturgis, the Hall Chemical Society is designed primarily for the students planning to enter the chemical or related fields of science. It is named after nine research chemists named Hall, all of whom were outstanding in this field.

The society holds meetings every other week throughout the year, at which time various topics of scientific interest are discussed. Occasionally either a professor in the science department or an outside authority is secured to speak on a prepared subject. The group likewise sponsors illustrated lectures on diverse phases of industrial chemistry from time to time. These are presented in the lecture room of the Science Building.

As a means of stimulating interest in certain fields of chemical science among the students of Ursinus, this society has become increasingly important in the brief period of its existence.

Music Club

ORGANIZED about seven or eight years ago by Miss Jeanette Douglas Hartenstine, then director of choral music at the College, the Music Club is designed to bring together all students in the musical organizations of the campus. Regular monthly meetings are held on the first Tuesday of every month at which time a program, consisting of instrumental recitals and choral work, is rendered by the student members.

This year is an especially notable one in the music field at Ursinus because of the introduction of a new music director and teacher, Dr. William F. Philip. Dr. Philip has taken over the duties of Miss Hartenstine, and under his supervision the Music Club has continued its activities.

In addition to the customary programs held by the Club in years past, the group has included several new features among its activities. Dr. Philip on several occasions has given talks on musical appreciation, and to further this idea planned for a trip to an opera in Philadelphia.

THE CHOIR is another organization that has benefited by the directorship of Dr. William F. Philip. Formed from students at the College before the turn of the century, the Choir is the oldest of any of the extra-curricular organizations at Ursinus.

The main duty of this choral association is to conduct the musical portion of the daily chapel services; but in addition to this it functions at other formal ceremonies held by the College, including Christmas Communion services, Founders' Day and Commencement exercises. This year has been marked not only by an enlarged membership, but also by an increase in both its activity and variation of programs for daily chapel.

Membership is open to all students interested in this type of activity.

Glee Club

IN an effort to build up a better organization, Dr. Philip this year combined the men's and women's glee clubs into one body. This is expected to be only a temporary arrangement, however, and it will probably be split again next year. Regular weekly rehearsals are held every Thursday evening.

The high light of this year's season is the light opera planned for the night of June 6. The opera chosen for this event was "The Pied Piper of Hamelin", written by Joseph W. Clokey, who is best known for his years of work devoted to the revision of old church music.

Unfortunately, two concerts which had been scheduled for this spring had to be cancelled. However, the Club has continued its preparation of a concert program of both secular and religious music. Dr. Philip intends at some time to present a program over the air.

The Symphony Orchestra

THE COLLEGE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, which was organized in the fall of 1933 with the coming of Mr. J. W. F. Leman to Ursinus, has continued to function during the year 1935-36. Regular rehearsals are held weekly on Thursday evenings. With the formal engagement of Mr. Leman, the orchestra became a prescribed course of study in the Music Department, and credit is given to those participating.

The requirements for enrollment in the orchestra are regular attendance at the weekly rehearsals and two and one-half hours of practice per week. Along with the regular concert practice, members are drilled in the technical and artistic development of instrumental playing. Up to the present date, the orchestra has made no public appearance outside of various college activities.

Cooperating with Mr. Leman in the development of a concert orchestra is Mr. William F. Philip, a new addition to the musical department of the faculty. Mr. Philip has built up a small orchestra of his own largely from members of the College Symphony Orchestra.

Interfraternity Council

PURSUING its task of securing harmony and cooperation among the five fraternities on the campus, the Interfraternity Council completed its eighth year of activity. The Council is made up of ten men, two from each fraternity. These are supposed to be one senior representative and one junior representative, although this year Beta Sigma Lambda was represented by two seniors.

The offices of the Council circulate among all the fraternities, each fraternity receiving this honor once in five years. The president is the senior representative and the secretary-treasurer is the junior representative of that fraternity which is entitled to hold these offices. This year Alpha Phi Epsilon's representatives acted as president and secretary-treasurer; next fall Demas will take over the reins.

Besides its main duty of preventing illegal rushing of freshmen and of punishing violations of the rushing rules, the Council has cooperated with the Intersorority Council in holding its second annual informal dance, this year on January 10. It has also made the award of the Interfraternity Scholastic Plaque, which was purchased in the spring of 1935. For both semesters of the year 1935-36, the plaque was held by Beta Sigma Lambda, which was scholastically the highest ranking fraternity at the end of the year 1934-35 and again in January, 1936.

Intersorority Council

WORKING side by side with the Interfraternity Council, although in a sphere all its own, is the Intersorority Council, the body regulating all affairs of the Ursinus sororities as a group. This Council was organized in 1930 at the time when fraternal organizations were recognized by the administration.

With the aim of establishing better spirit among the sororities, the Council has drawn up a body of rules governing the rushing of freshmen and upperclass girls. It also has the task of revising these rules whenever the need becomes apparent.

The organization of the Council is somewhat similar to that of its parallel, the Interfraternity Council. However, with the women, only the presidency is circulated among the various sororities, being held this year by Alpha Sigma Nu. The other officers are chosen by the group itself.

Each sorority is represented by its president and vice-president. The members may be from any class. The past year and a half has seen several noteworthy changes in the sorority organizations on the campus; in the winter of 1934-35, Alpha Chi Lambda and Sigma Omega Gamma fused to create a new group known as Omega Chi; and in the fall of 1935, Chi Alpha Tau disbanded after an existence of seven years.

WE have here some evidences of that fraternal spirit that reigns over the campus, not only in the fraternities and sororities themselves but among the entire student body as well. Despite the apparent discomfort of the freshmen victims, the friendly spirit can be traced from the measles patients in the upper left corner to Headstander Smith in the lower right.

Varsity Club

ONE of the most important propositions undertaken by the Varsity Club this past year concerned the purchase of sweaters for all men who have earned a major sport "U." This action will supplement that of the Athletic Council of the College which has in the past purchased sweaters for varsity men after three years of participation in a major sport. Although this plan called for a large original outlay of money, it is in reality a loan; for the Athletic Council will now pay the Varsity Club the price of all sweaters when a person has completed his third year of participation. Because of the great initial expense, the benefits of the plan were limited to junior men this year, but it will extend to all after September, 1936.

An equally significant action was taken in respect to the size and style of letters. After several years of consideration, the Club finally passed a rule that the Varsity "U" be standardized; and the committee in charge decided upon a six-inch block "U" for all major sports, and a five-inch block "U" for all minor sports. This plan went into effect in the fall of 1935.

Another change made in the regulations of the Club was the abolition of all dues. Hereafter, the banquet will be paid for from the profits made on the Grizzly Gridder and on the Varsity Club Dance. In case this surplus is not sufficient, the balance will be made up by means of individual assessments on those attending the banquet.

The Grizzly Gridder, the official football program of the College and a Varsity Club publication, passed through a successful year, the profits accruing to the Club amounting to over $150. The annual Varsity Club Dance was held on November 23, 1935, and the annual banquet was planned for the first week in April.

THE 1935 FOOTBALL

THE 1935 Ursinus football Grizzly fared poorly in the wars of the Autumn gridiron. Only three victories were recorded in a schedule of nine games, but despite the half dozen losses, Ursinus placed second in the final standing of the Eastern Pennsylvania Collegiate Conference with three games won and one lost against league opponents.

The season opened with three straight losses at the hands of Villanova, Bucknell and LaSalle, after a practice game defeat of West Chester. The first victory was over Muhlenberg, but the Bears promptly lapsed into the short end against Albright in the following game. Drexel was turned back next, followed by a shellacking at the hands of the powerful F. & M. team. Gettysburg went down before the Ursinus gridders in the next event, and the season closed with a loss to P. M. C. on Thanksgiving day.

A characteristic of the 1935 team was the fact that seven seniors predominated in the starting line-up, led by Co-captains Grimm and Bassman.

Two new members were added to the coaching staff. Pete Stevens, former captain and All-Eastern center from Temple, was engaged to fill Ralph "Horse" Chase's position as assistant coach. Donald Kellett, ex-University of Pennsylvania backfield ace, took over "Swede" Paul's place as freshman mentor. Jack McAvoy continued in his position of Head Coach.

Twenty-six men were awarded varsity letters, from whose number Raymond "Fats" Costello was elected to the captaincy of the 1936 eleven. The lettermen are: Seniors: Bassman, Bradford, Calvert, Gaudmer, Davison, Gensler, Grenawalt, Grimm, Johnson, Kwiecinski, Levin, Rinehart, Clawson (Manager); Brown (Manager); Juniors: Bonkoski, Costello, Dresch, Jakomas, Lamore, Pancoast, Tworzydlo, Wildonger, Worster; Sophomores: Bodley, Lipka, Porambo.

URSINUS 0, VILLANOVA 31

In the opening game of the season, Ursinus met Villanova at the Main Liners' stadium and fell in defeat, 31-0. The Grizzlies were outweighed and out-smarted by the clever Rockne system that Stuhldreher's Wildcats employed. Within a few minutes of the opening whistle, Raimo, of Villanova, accounted for the first score, and in the next period dashed 66 yards for his second of three touchdowns. After these two tallies the Bear defense tightened and the Villanova offense was checked in the latter part of the second quarter and the beginning of the third. At one time in the second period the Bears invaded Wildcat territory as a result of an intercepted pass by Rinehart. A pass, Calvert to Tworzydlo, brought the ball into enemy ground. A few plays later an Ursinus fumble ended the only offensive Grizzly thrust of the day. In the second half the Villanovans again took up the attack, and a weakened Ursinus defense allowed three more touchdowns to be scored. Raimo, Nye and Bell accounted for the three scores which left the Bears hopelessly outclassed. Captain "Reds" Bassman, "Fats" Costello and Sieb Pancoast shone throughout the afternoon with their dogged defensive thrusts at the charging 'Cats.

URSINUS 0, BUCKNELL 20

The second game was played against Bucknell, in an electrically lighted night meeting at Lewisburg. The Bears were turned back by a 20-0 score in a game which was much more closely fought than the score indicates. The Grizzlies were again upset in the early moments of the contest as Bucknell's Miller threw a 30-yard pass to Smith for a score. From then on the Ursinus defense stiffened until the middle of the second half, when the Bisons scored two more touchdowns, one on a pass and the other on a 50-yard run. The Bears showed a much more determined offensive against Bucknell than they had in the Villanova game, and in a sustained drive of 60 yards threatened to score from Bucknell's 20-yard line. Nine Ursinus first downs were registered against the Bisons' 14. Co-captains Bassman and Grimm, and "Rube" Levin were defensive bulwarks for the Bears, while Charlie Dresch showed his fleetness in carrying the ball.

URSINUS 0, LA SALLE 18

The LaSalle Explorers, led by Marty Brill, invaded Collegeville to down the Bears for their third straight defeat of the year. The final score was 18-0, and each of the three touchdowns was scored through the air. The Explorers' running attack sufficed to put them in scoring position, but when the Grizzly defense solidified, the Philadelphians borrowed the tool on which the Bears had relied, the forward pass, and made it count three times throughout the game. The loss of Cliff Calvert, ace passer, in the first period blasted the Ursinus aerial hopes, and the LaSalle defense upset the Bear running attack. With Cutcavage carrying the ball, LaSalle advanced to the Ursinus 12 from their own 34-yard line. Wartman scored the first touchdown on a short pass. Twice more the Explorers pounded the line and ends to bring the ball into position, and two more passes, one to

URSINUS 21, MUHLENBERG 0

The victory-starved Bears tore through the Muhlenberg Mules for their first win of the season when they downed the Allentown boys, 21-0, on Patterson Field before a large crowd of Homecomers. Five sustained Grizzly drives culminated in three touchdowns, and superior defensive work drove the Mules from any chance at scoring. The first quarter was passed with a punting duel, featuring Bonkoski's talented toe outkicking the equally talented Farrel, of Muhlenberg. It was Bonkoski's second quarter punt, traveling over the head of the Mule safety man to his five-yard line that gave the Bears their first score. A poor return punt and a subsequent long run by Bassman brought the ball to the three-yard mark for the final push. Soon after, Johnny Porambo, Ursinus sophomore centre, intercepted a pass and raced 25 yards for another touchdown. Both scores were augmented by one-point kicks by Bonkoski—a total of 14 points scored within a minute. A blocked Muhlenberg punt in the third quarter gave the Grizzlies the ball on their own 40. From here Lipka, Jakomas and Costello smashed the pigskin down to scoring position, with Costello crossing the line standing up. Bonkoski again converted. Ursinus substitutes successfully held the advantage in the last quarter with neither team threatening to score.

URSINUS 0, ALBRIGHT 23

The Grizzly soon returned to his losing ways after a brief taste of conquest, when the Albright Lions rolled over the Ursinus team, 23-0. The Bears made a heartening start against their Reading foe with an attack that seemed promising, but the smoother Albright outfit soon applied the pressure that withered the Bear charges to defensive lunges. The first quarter looked all Ursinus, with Bonkoski punting the Lions into difficulty and the Bear backs picking up yardage through the line. In the second quarter, a 19-yard run by McCormack, a long pass, and a plunge by McCormack accounted for the first Albright touchdown. The remainder of the scoring was done in the second half. Muller kicked a field goal for three points. A fumble by Costello was grabbed by Zuke, who ran 35 yards for the second Lion touchdown. In the last quarter rough tactics were used by both teams which resulted in numerous fumbles, penalties and intercepted passes. The Bears had seemingly no offensive attack against the strong Albright defense. An Ursinus pass, late in the game, was intercepted by an Albright back, and, after two lateral passes involving three Lion runners, the ball was carried across the Ursinus goal by Knox, ending the day's scoring.

The Bear and the Dragon met in Philadelphia in a league game, and the Ursinus Bear came out of the fray with a victory scored over Drexel, 20-6. Ursinus clearly outclassed the Drexel Instituturs, and with the additional advantage of several breaks, scored three touchdowns to the Dragons' one. After five minutes of play, the Grizzlies took the offensive, and the remainder of the game was in the Bears' favor. After Gensler and Levin recovered a touched punt by the Drexel safety man on the Drexel 15-yard marker, two line smashes by Bassman and Jakomas, a penalty for roughness, and another trot by Bassman brought on the first touchdown. In the second half, a strong Grizzly defense staved off a Drexel attack on the four-yard line after the Dragons had marched 50-yards down the field. Later, Lamore recovered a fumbled punt on the Drexel 35. Two long passes, one to Wildonger and one to Lamore, resulted in six more Ursinus points, with the latter scoring. An intercepted Grizzly pass, and a long heave to Curry, put Drexel in scoring position on the two-yard line, from whence Petchik scored the lone Dragon tally. A series of effective runs by Costello after the Drexel kickoff, carried the pigskin to a quick Ursinus touchdown, to leave Drexel hopelessly outclassed and the second Conference victim of the Bruins.

URSINUS 0, F. & M. 59

A revengeful Franklin and Marshall team more than repaid their Ursinus jinxmen, by rolling up a score of 59 points in an effort to forget the five-year Indian sign held by the Bears. Ursinus absorbed its worst beating in years and were helpless to stop the march of the Red Roses. Touchdown after touchdown swept over the powerless Bruins, until nine six-pointers had been registered. In every phase of the game the Bears were outclassed. Running attacks failed, aerial attacks failed and defensive stands were totally ineffective. The one lone Grizzly thrust came late in the game as Bonkoski returned the Diplomats' kickoff to their 42. Two passes, with Grenawalt and Wildonger doing the receiving, and a penalty for holding, put the ball on F. & M.'s 15-yard line. Four passes failed to result in a score and the game ended with the ball in possession of F. & M.

URSINUS 30, GETTYSBURG 14

The Grizzlies snapped back from their humiliating experience with F. & M. by blasting the startled Gettysburg Bullets in a free-scoring game at the battlefield, 30-14. Sparkling broken field running by Jakomas, Bonkoski and Bassman kept the ball in a perpetual motion towards the G-burg goal and accounted for three of the five Bear touchdowns. After a series of first downs had been made by this trio, Jakomas slashed across the line for the first score. Soon after, Ozzie Rinehart, powerful Bruin tackle, picked up a loose G-burg punt and dashed across for another tally. Ursinus scoring was momentarily stopped when Yevak, Bullet back, returned Rinehart's kickoff 100 yards to a touchdown. The Bears soon came back with a 64-yard march which ended with Jakomas again lugging the ball across the stripe. A fumbled ball after a long punt gave Gettysburg the ball on the Ursinus 15. From there a line buck and a pass to Sobolesky gave the Bullets another touchdown. Rinehart again shone as a ball-carrying tackle when he grabbed a G-burg pass and crossed the goal-line for his second touchdown. The scoring was not yet ended, for in the last quarter Bounce Bonkoski showed his slippery open-field running as he carried the pigskin around end and through the Bullet secondary for 46 yards and a score.

URSINUS 0, P. M. C. 6

The Bears ended a less than mediocre season on Thanksgiving day by dropping a close, hard-fought decision to the Pennsylvania Military College Cadets at Chester, 6-0. Played in a field of mud, the game developed into a see-saw affair until late in the final quarter the Cadets pushed over a touchdown after an Ursinus fumble. The first quarter developed into a punting duel between Bonkoski and Lockwood. The next two periods were marked by offensive attacks of both teams failing to materialize as the slippery ball skidded and bounced from one side to the other. Toward the end of the game, an aggressive P. M. C. drive and a well-placed punt brought the ball to the Ursinus two-yard line where the Bears took possession. A poor pass from center caused an Ursinus fumble which was recovered by the Cadets on the Bears' one-yard line. Malinski then plunged across for the only score. Just before the end of the game the Cadets were again knocking at the Ursinus door, but vicious tackling by the ever-vicious Bassman staved off the rush until the whistle.

Soccer

HANDICAPPED by the loss of seven varsity players, Coach Baker's soccer team passed through one of its poorest seasons judging by the scores. However, the record of one victory, one tie, and five losses does not do justice to the hard-fighting Grizzly eleven. With a squad made up largely of inexperienced men, the Bakermen fought some close battles against opposing teams of admittedly superior calibre. Although six or seven players will be lost to the team through graduation, a marked improvement is expected in the fall of '36.

The 1935 schedule consisted of seven games; the opponents included West Chester, Haverford J. V.'s, Delaware, Dickinson, F. and M., Gettysburg, and Temple. Of these, two games were played at home, the contests with Delaware and Temple. This season also marked the first in the history of the Conference Soccer League, of which Gettysburg, F. & M., Dickinson, and Ursinus are members. Of the nine soccer lettermen who graduate this spring, three have played for the four seasons during which the Ursinus soccer team has been in existence. These men are Captain Charlie Shaffer, Lefty Trumbore, and Gordy Spangler.

THE 1935 SEASON

The West Chester Game: On October 11, the Grizzly booters went down in defeat before a powerful aggregation from West Chester Teacher's College. Although the final score was 4-0, this contest was distinctly favorable for the Baker shin-busters, as the teachers had entered the game with a record of forty-two consecutive victories behind them.

The Haverford Game: With freshmen filling in the weak spots, Ursinus met the Haverford J. V.'s in a closely-fought match that ended in a 2-2 stalemate, after the Bears had been leading at the half. The Grizzly defense broke in the third quarter, however, and the opponents tied the score. The Ursinus goals were made by Robinson and Schaffer.

The Delaware Game: The first home game and the first victory went hand in hand, as the Bear booters downed the Delaware invasion, 2-1. With the score 2-0 at half, the Bears managed to hold their lead despite a strong comeback by the visitors in the final period. The scores were made by Ernst, on a perfect pass from Chestnut, and by Boysen. Fine defensive work was shown by Goalie Trumbore, and Fullbacks Cubberley and Griffiths.

The Dickinson Game: In the first conference game, played at Carlisle on November 2, the Grizzlies lost a tough one to the score of 2-0, after holding the Red Devils scoreless for the first half. The inexperienced team gave way before the strain in the opening of the third quarter; and as the defense weakened, the opponents took advantage of a free kick which put them in scoring position. The other goal followed shortly after when a well-aimed boot slipped by Trumbore's fingers.

The F. and M. Game: A week later, on the morning of the annual football battle with Ursinus' most hated rival, the Bakermen again tasted defeat at the hands of the Nevonian eleven. Once again, Ursinus held the enemy scoreless for the initial period, but broke under the enemy's onslaught, and the Red Roses slipped in three tallies to win, 3-0. The last period was scoreless for both sides, but was marked by a catastrophe for the Bears when Ed Frey suffered a fractured leg in a tussle near the goal.

The Gettysburg Game: On November 16, the Grizzly soccermen fought out the closest match of the season with an equally-matched eleven on the Bullets' home grounds. With the score 0-0 at the end of the regulation period, two five minute extra sessions were needed before the Battlefield host broke through the Grizzly defense to hang up the lone tally of the game. The winning point came as a result of a final drive in the last five seconds of play.

The Temple Game: Closing their season at home, the Baker booters lost their fifth contest, as the invading Temple eleven ran roughshod over them on Longstreth Field. The Owls were never in danger, and led by a 4-0 score until the final quarter when Ehret, substitute Grizzly lineman, drove one between the uprights for the Bears' lone point. The game was characterized by a driving Temple attack and weak defensive work on the part of the Grizzlies. The final score: 4-1.

Cross-Country

WITH continued decline, the cross country team finished a season even worse than that of the year before, losing all three of the dual meets, and winding up in last place in the Conference meet between F. & M., Drexel, and Ursinus. This year's squad had only two lettermen as a nucleus around which to build an entire new team, and missed the fine work of Captain-Elect Meredith Neiman, who dropped out of school last spring. However, the squad of seven men is made up largely of sophomores and juniors, only Captain McLaughlin graduating this year. Under these conditions, the 1936 season may see a much more experienced and better trained team in the field than has been the case for the past two years.

The season consisted of three dual meets, with Lafayette, F. & M., and Lehigh, and the Conference meet which was held on October 30 at Ursinus. Drexel, a newcomer to the Conference, took the place of Dickinson. The Lehigh meet was also held at home. The best individual showing was made by Charlie Wynkoop, who finished first for the Bear harriers in three meets, and usually in good time. Other men on the squad were Captain Bob McLaughlin, Charles Wallick, Bill Ridgway, Frank Reynolds, Kenny Clouse, and Al Robinson, the first three of whom received letters. Stan Omwake acted as coach, and Henry Laughlin, a sophomore, took over the managerial duties upon the resignation of Ted Boysen.

THE 1935 SEASON

The Lafayette Meet: The opening meet of the year was held at Easton on October 26, when the Ursinus hill-and-dalers were whitewashed as home team snared the first five places. Wynkoop came in first for the Bears, his time being 30:27, or four minutes behind the leader who set a new record for the court. The final score: 15-40.

The Conference Meet: The annual triple event was held at home four days later, and was run over the new five-mile course lying just west of the College. F. & M., long noted for its excellent cross-country teams, easily won the meet as her harriers took first, second, fifth, sixth, and seventh places. Drexel, the newcomer to the Conference, was second, with third, fourth, eighth, eleventh, and twelfth places to her credit. The Grizzly runners came in last, with Wallick finishing ninth in the race and first for Ursinus, with the time of 31:57. The final score was F. & M., 21; Drexel, 41; and Ursinus, 58.

The F. and M. Meet: A second whitewashing was given the Bear hill-and-dalers when the Nevonians ran over them to the tune of 15:40, capturing all of the first five places. Wynkoop finished first for Ursinus once again, his time of 20:27 for the four-mile course being only a minute and forty-seven seconds behind the F. & M. winner.

The Lehigh Meet: The best showing for the season was made in the Lehigh meet on the home course on November 16. Lehigh won the first three places as three Brown and White runners crossed the tape in a triple tie, closely followed by Wynkoop, whose time was only a minute less than the record for the course. McLaughlin, running his last collegiate meet, finished in sixth place. The final score was: Lehigh, 18; Ursinus, 37.

Basketball

WITH a record of five wins and eight losses, the Grizzly courtmen wound up a fair season, significant mainly for the complete change of system inaugurated by Coach Ken Hashagen, a newcomer to the athletic staff of Ursinus. With a percentage of .394, the Bears finished in fifth place in the Conference, which was led this year by F. and M. Gettysburg, Drexel, and Albright also stood above Ursinus in the order named, while Muhlenberg and Lebanon Valley placed sixth and seventh.

After getting off to a good start in the first two games, played on the home court against Lebanon Valley and Gettysburg, last year's Conference winner, the Bear quintet fell into a slump and dropped seven in a row. A comeback was staged in the closing games of the season when they eked out two victories in closely-fought battles with Muhlenberg, and averaged .600 in the last five contests. Co-captains Calvert and Grenawalt led the squad in scoring with totals of 82 and 76 points respectively. Six men received varsity letters in basketball at the end of the season; these are Captains Grenawalt and Calvert, Captains-elect Tworzydlo and Costello, Jus Bodley, and Elmer Gaumer. Other members of the squad were Lauer, Vaccaro, Baker, Reiff, Trumbore, and Heiges.

The schedule of thirteen games included, besides two games with each member of the Conference, a contest with St. Joseph's, which the Bears lost, 42-24. In this fray, which took place on the Philadelphians' home court, the Grizzlies found themselves outplayed throughout the game, the lightning-fast Hawk quintet taking the lead in the opening minutes and piling up a ten-point lead by half-time.

LEBANON VALLEY: In the two contests with the Annville courtsters, the Bears split even, downing the Blue and White charges, 39-22, in the opening battle of the season, and falling in defeat, 40-31, on the return trip. The Grizzlies made an auspicious debut in this first tussle, played at Collegeville on January 8. Taking the lead early in the battle, the Ursinus courtmen were never threatened; Calvert was high scorer with fourteen points. Tables were turned, however, three weeks later when the Grizzlies presented one of their worst showings of the season. Trailing from the very start, the Ursinus machine played roughly and poorly throughout, and the

and
Manager OSCAR FREAS

Collegians took advantage of the situation to pull down their only win of the season. Grenawalt led the scoring with eleven points.

GETTYSBURG: The second game of the season was as auspicious as the first, as the Grizzlies, playing a close man-to-man defense, held the high-scoring G-burg courtmen to five field goals, thus giving the Bears a 19-16 victory, the first over the Bullets since the inauguration of the league. In this tight battle, which ended at half-time in a 6-6 tie, the local quintet presented one of the peppiest teams Ursinus has seen on the floor in years. With only three minutes to play and the score 15-all, Gaumer, substitute forward, sank two fouls to give the Bears a lead, made safer by Tworzydlo's bucket in the waning minutes. In the return game, however, retribution was served on the Grizzlies as defeat dogged the trail of their week-end trip on February 28. The Bullets took revenge by shellacking the visiting courtsters, 47-11, as Morris, Battlefield guard, piled up eighteen points. Ursinus failed to score a single two-pointer until eight minutes before the end of the fray.

ALBRIGHT: Beginning the seven-week slump with the Albright battle on the home court on January 18, Ursinus was set back by the speedy Reading combination, 34-29, after leading at half-time by the score of 13-9. Both teams flashed splendid brands of basketball at times, but the Ursinus Bear was caught flat-footed after a six-point rally by the Albright Lion soon after the opening of the second half. This developed into a scoring spree that did not stop until the final whistle found Ursinus five points behind. The Grizzly fared no better when he travelled to Reading a month later and fell before the spirited assault of the Albright five, on the rebound from a shellacking by Muhlenberg. In a rough and sloppily-played ball game, the Bears were more firmly embedded in the second division of the League, as the Red and White quintet piled up a six-point lead by half-time, and increased it to seventeen in the second period. The final score was 46-29. Calvert was high scorer for the Bears with nine points.

DREXEL: Meeting the Drexel Dragon for the first of the two-game series on the Institute floor, the Grizzly dropped into fifth place in the Conference and out of the race as they lost an overtime tilt, 32-30. Superior foul-shooting won the game for the Dragons in a poorly played, but interesting and exciting, game. The Bears' lead of 19-10 at half slowly dwindled until the final whistle found the teams deadlocked at 30-all. Curry's field goal from mid-floor broke the tie in the extra minutes and gave Drexel the victory. This time it was the Bears who sought revenge in the return engagement, and found it as they overcame a first-half four-point lead in a final period rally to take over the visitors, 31-27. In this closing game of the season, played on March 4, Costello was high piont-getter for the Grizzlies, with five buckets and two fouls to his credit.

F. AND M.: Two losses were sustained at the hands of the Nevonian quintet; the first, a 32-21 setback received on the Collegeville floor; and the second, a 42-38 defeat that marked the tenth win for the Lancaster courtmen. Both losses resulted from a second-half slump on the part of the Bears. In the first, the Grizzly trailed by only a single point at half, and the second found the Bears leading by the same margin at the mid-point. Bodley, sophomore forward, carried the individual honors for Ursinus at the F. and M. court by leading the attack and piling up eleven points. The elimination of Grenawalt, Costello, and Calvert via the foul route was an important factor in giving the game to the Nevonian League-leading quintet.

MUHLENBERG: Staging a last half rally after trailing 26-13 at half-time, the Ursinus Bears came from behind to down the Muhls at the Allentown Little Palestra on February 22. The 39-38 victory came as a result of Grenawalt's foul in the last 35 seconds of play to break the 38-38 deadlock. This was the first time Ursinus showed signs of returning to that early season form that had made them the talk of the Conference. A repetition of this fray took place three days later when the Grizzly once again nosed out the Muhl by one point to take the game, 34-33. Bodley led the scoring in the first game with the grand total of 17, while Calvert was high on the second occasion with 10 counters.

Wrestling

STARTING the season with but four returning varsity men, the 1936 wrestling team had to overcome great odds to finish the season with a fair record. The returning experienced men were Captain Bassman, Lipkin, Bradford, and Reynolds. After an injury to Joll, sophomore 175 pounder in the Penn meet, Grimm returned to take over his old position. The new men to win places were Hayashi at 118, Concello at 126, Guest at 135, Althouse at 165, and Knoll in the unlimited division.

The grapplers chalked up 71 points in six meets, against 121 for their opponents. The victories scored were at the expense of Haverford and Johns Hopkins. The defeats were at the hands of F. and M., Penn, Lafayette, and Gettysburg. Herman Bassman, one of the greatest wrestlers ever to wear the tights at Ursinus, again was the leading individual point scorer. Alternating at the 165 and 175 pound classes, Bassman lost but one match during the season, that to Hetrick, powerful F. and M. 175-pounder, and then wound up his collegiate wrestling career in a blaze of glory as he won the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Wrestling Association 165 pound championship.

THE SEASON

URSINUS—5; F. AND M.—33: In the opening meet of the season, the Grizzly grapplers were no match for the powerful F. and M. wrestlers and were able to win but one bout. The single victory was scored by Joll, formerly of F. and M. Academy, in his first college match.

URSINUS—11; PENN—21: Although defeated by a fairly wide margin, the Grizzlies showed much potential strength and marked improvement in the Penn encounter. After the Quakers had taken the first three weights on falls, Lipkin began the scoring for Ursinus with an extra-period victory in the 145-pound class. Bassman threw his opponent within five minutes to score the only Ursinus fall win. Joll, greatly outweighed by his opponent, completed the Grizzly scoring as he took the decision in another overtime bout.

URSINUS—21; HAVERFORD—13: Coach Wieneke's matmen opened their home season in impressive style as they came from behind to score the season's first victory. Hayashi opened the meet with a win on time advantage, to be followed by Haverford men netting their team two pins and one time decision. In the 155 pound encounter, Bradford exhibited his old form to defeat his opponent by a big time advantage. Bassman again scored a fall; Grimm, appearing on the mat for the first time this season, won on a default. The prize bout of the evening featured Knoll and Balderston, both wrestling their first collegiate match, in which the Ursinus grappler was able to pin his man in six minutes.

URSINUS—19; JOHNS HOPKINS—11: Although the trip to Baltimore resulted in five victories in eight matches, it was not until Knoll pinned his man in the final tilt that the winning margin was realized. Bassman also scored a pin victory in five minutes, while time decisions were secured by Reynolds, Hayashi, and Lipkin.

URSINUS—9; LAFAYETTE—17: In the last home meet, the Bears bowed to a highly touted Lafayette squad in a duel that was not decided until the final bout. The Ursinus victors were Captain Bassman, who defeated Harris, the foe captain, Reynolds and Lipkin, all on time advantages. Hayashi and Joll were forced into extra periods, but neither could come through.

URSINUS—6; GETTYSBURG—26: Bradford and Bassman were the only Bears able to score victories in the final dual meet. After apparently enjoying time advantages over their opponents, both Grimm and Hayashi were forced to wrestle extra periods, and again Ursinus lost the overtime affairs.

The host college won by a single point, with Gettysburg second. Haverford brought up the rear. Red Bassman was the only Bear to be crowned champion in any division, winning the gold medal in the 165-pound class. Lipkin and Bradford took second place honors in the 145 and 155 pound classes. # Baseball

THE most successful of the major sports over the past year was baseball, in which a season of eleven games was completed, with a record of six victories and five losses. Fifteen games were originally scheduled, the contests with Villanova (at home), Penn A. C., Albright, and Drexel being rained out. Of these only Drexel was among the members of the Conference. Of the League games played, only one was lost, and the Bears ended the season in a tie with G-burg for second place. The Conference championship was won by the Lebanon Valley nine with a percentage of .800.

Ursinus far outdid their opponents both in hits and runs, pounding out 93 safeties while allowing only 60 to be scored off them. Fifty-six Grizzly batsmen crossed the home plate while their opponents netted only 35 runs. Roy Johnson, who alternated on the mound and in the outfield, placed second in the League batting averages with a .500 score, while Lefty Beyer, Grizzly hurler, led the batters for the season with six hits in fourteen attempts.

THE SEASON

URSINUS—2; LAFAYETTE—3: In the season's opener, played at Easton on April 6, the Bear nine went down in defeat despite the superb pitching of Lefty Trumbore, who allowed but two hits and fanned nine Maroon batters. The hits were costly, however, as one was a circuit clout with a runner on base; and the other also counted for a run by driving in a man who had reached the bases on a walk. Wildonger and Gensler accounted for the Ursinus runs. Gensler also led the hitting with two for three.

URSINUS—1; TEMPLE—6: Another defeat was handed the Grizzly batsmen by the Temple Owls four days later, when the Philadelphia nine made the most of the five hits allowed them by pitcher Roy Johnson. These safeties, knocked out mostly in the two initial innings, gave the foe an early lead that they managed to maintain throughout the ball game as it developed into a closely fought pitchers' duel.

URSINUS—13; SWARTHMORE—0: The opener of the home season and the first Ursinus victory came on the 24th of April, as Don Mowrey held the Swarthmore sluggers to five hits, struck out five, and allowed no walks. The contest developed into a veritable batting practice for the Bears, who batted round in the second frame, Wildonger coming up twice. Gensler and Calvert led the spree with three hits apiece, while Tworzydlo and Fisher turned in perfect averages with two for two. Two-base hits were registered by Tworzydlo and Gensler.

URSINUS—2; RUTGERS—5: Once again the excellent pitching of Trumbore, who gave the Jerseysites only four hits in this postponed diamond-fest, failed to net the Bears a victory. Although the Johnsonmen outhit their opponents, eight to four, seven free trips to first aided the Rutgers nine to pile up five runs. Cubberley led the hitting after rising from a batting slump to convert three out of four trips to the plate.

URSINUS—16; LEHIGH—2: On April 30th, Beyer, pitching his first game of the season, played the leading role in shellacking the Lehigh batsmen, 16-2, as he fanned ten, allowed only eight hits and one walk, and led the scoring and hitting by slashing out four hits in five trips to the plate. Two of these he drove out of the lot for homers, and in the last inning scored a third run after stealing second by coming in on Sacks' single. Good fielding and two double plays aided the Bears in holding down the Lehigh men.

URSINUS—3; LEBANON VALLEY—5: The first game of the overnight trip resulted in the first Conference game loss, as the Annville nine knocked Johnson and Beyer out of the box. The Lebanon Valley hurler registered ten strike-outs, fanning Gensler three times in a row. Johnson led the Bear batters with two hits out of four tries, one of them his second home run of the year. Trumbore finished the game on the mound.

URSINUS—2; GETTYSBURG—0: Trumbore's first victory was chalked up the next day as the Grizzly nine shut-out the Battlefield diamond men. Trumbore allowed only four hits in the tight pitchers' battle to blank the conquerors of Penn State and Navy. The Grizzly's first run came in the fifth frame as Gensler tripled and scored on a squeeze play, Trumbore bunting. The second tally was made in the sixth as Fisher scored on a double steal. Wildonger led the batting with .500.

URSINUS—6; BUCKNELL—5: Returning to the home field on May 15th to play a postponed League contest, the Bears nosed out the Bucknell Bisons after slashing out fourteen hits, two for the full circuit by Captain Fisher and Roy Johnson. Sacks' line drive to right field in the seventh accounted for two more of the six runs. Johnson pitched eight innings, when he was relieved by Trumbore.

URSINUS—4; JUNIATA—3: Smart base running and a nicely laid bunt in the last half of the ninth inning helped the Bears nose out the Juniata Indians, 4-3. Beyer pitched his second victory, holding the visitors to seven hits and eight runless innings. Fisher netted two runs, one in the initial frame on Johnson's double, and one in the eighth on Wildonger's single. Gensler scored on Beyer's hit in the second. With the score tied at 3-all, the Bears went into the last half of the ninth. Pancoast, substitute third baseman, was hit by the pitcher, and advanced to third on Beyer's single to right. The winning run was then scored on a squeeze play as Cubberley laid down a perfect bunt.

URSINUS—4; P. M. C.—3: Dip Mowrey pitched his second and the Bears' fourth consecutive victory, as the Grizzly batsmen nosed out the Cadets, 4-3. Mowrey allowed only four hits. Johnson started the Ursinus scoring in the first inning by clouting out his fourth homer of the season, scoring Sacks and Fisher before him. Pancoast accounted for the fourth run as he scored on Wildonger's single. Wildonger led the batters with three hits out of four attempts, while Johnson also had three hits to his credit.

URSINUS—3; VILLANOVA—4: In the last game of the season, the Bears for the second time came out on the small end of a 4-3 score. Russ Fisher's costly error and a perfect squeeze play in the eighth inning gave the Wildcats their winning run. Johnson again led the Grizzlies in hitting, with two safeties out of four times at bat.

Track

THE track team, under the coaching of Jack McAvoy, once again won only one meet out of the four scheduled events, but the records will show several closely fought meets which were interesting from a spectator's viewpoint despite the losses. Several Ursinus College records were broken, and two new Patterson field records were set by F. and M. runners. The new College records were made by Grimm in the 120-yard high hurdles, by Gaumer in the running high jump, and by Pancoast in the quarter-mile. The presence of several outstanding sophomores on the team betokened more success in the seasons to follow.

1936 Captain-elect Johnny Grimm led the individual scoring with sixty-five points for four meets, taking three first places in every contest. Pancoast, sophomore sprinter, ranked second with thirty-four points, while Gaumer, high jumper and high hurdler, stood third with twenty. Besides the four scheduled meets, Ursinus was represented by Grimm, Gaumer, and Levin in the Middle Atlantics at Lehigh, the first two of whom scored points in the events in which they were entered.

THE SEASON

URSINUS—55; DREXEL—71: In the opener of the season, the Grizzly track and field men were defeated on Patterson field by the invading Drexel Dragons. The Bears managed to hold their own in the sprints and field events, but were nosed out when Drexel took all three places in the 880-yard dash, the mile and two-mile runs. Ursinus netted four firsts and shared a fifth, while Drexel took nine firsts and tied for a tenth. Ursinus also had eight second places and seven thirds, while Drexel took five seconds and seven thirds. Johnny Grimm led the scoring for the Bears by winning the high and low hurdles and the broad jump for 15 points. Pancoast stood second with nine points as a result of his winning the 100-yard dash, and finishing second in the 440, and third in the 220. The times and distances were poor because of the cold weather throughout the meet. Second places were also scored by Murray in the 100- and 220-yard dashes, Levin in the shot put, Tworzydlo in the discus, Straub in the javelin, Gaumer in the high jump, and Robbins in the broad jump. Bradford tied for first place in the pole vault.

MIDDLE ATLANTICS: More than a dozen colleges and universities were represented at this annual meet, held at Lehigh on May 10-11. Two Grizzly entrants won places and points for Ursinus, as Rutgers easily took the meet with 54 points. Grimm took third place in the broad jump with a leap of 21'  $\frac{3}{4}$ ", and fifth in a close race in the high hurdles. Gaumer tied for second in the high jump when he bettered his own record and broke that of Ursinus athletes with a leap of six feet. Levin, who was entered in the shot put, was just nosed out of a place.

URSINUS—65; ALBRIGHT—61: The Bears' lone victory came on May 14 as they nosed out the Albright Lions at the Reading College's stadium. With the score 59-58 in favor of Ursinus, and with only one event, the broad jump, to be run off, Grimm won the meet for Ursinus by taking the event with a jump of 20' 9" on his last try. Grimm once again figured in the scoring with 15 points, having previously won both hurdles. Pancoast also took second honors for the second time by totalling eleven points, winning both the 220 and the 440 dashes, and knocking down a third in the 100. Pancoast's time of 54.1 seconds in the quarter-mile set a new College record for that event, bettering the old mark by .7 seconds. Other first places were scored by Gaumer in the high jump and by Wynkoop in the two-mile run, while Bradford tied for first place in the pole vault. Second places were registered for the Bears by Gaumer in the high hurdles, Bradford in the low hurdles, Tworzydlo in the discus and shot put, Bassman in the 880-yard dash, Reynolds in the two-mile, while Pole tied for second in the high jump. Gaumer also took a third in the low hurdles, Levin in the shot put, Johnson in the mile, while Murray tied for second in the 220.

URSINUS—55 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; ST. JOSEPH'S—70 $\frac{1}{2}$ : A second setback was handed the Grizzly track men by the St. Joe Hawks, despite Johnny Grimm's performances in five events which netted the Bears 19 points. Grimm took first place in both hurdles and the broad jump, second in the javelin throw, and third in the discus throw. The main feature was Grimm's high hurdle race in which he bettered his own College record and tied the Patterson field record with the time of 15.9 seconds. Pancoast for the third time ranked second in individual scoring as he tied for first with Murray in the 100-yard dash, took second in the 100, and thrilled the crowd in the 440 as he came down the home stretch to lose out by inches to the St. Joe runner. The defeat came as a result of Gaumer's and Pole's falling down in the high jump, and Bradford's not-up-to-par performance in the pole vault, all of whom had done better in previous meets. This, plus the fact that the Hawks garnered victories in the middle and long distances gave the opponents the points necessary to win. Rinehart added seven points for the Bears when he scored first in the discus, and took a pair of thirds in the javelin and the shot. Pole tied for first in the high jump, and other points for Ursinus were made by Wynkoop, second in the two mile; Tworzydlo, second in the discus; and Levin, second in the shot put and broad jump.

URSINUS—44; F. AND M.—82: The worst defeat for the season was inflicted by the invading Lancaster host, despite the performances of Johnny Grimm, who for the fourth consecutive time, took his usual three first places and a third in the javelin to pile up 16 points for the Bears. Gaumer tallied the only other first place for the Bears by winning the high jump. The most outstanding performances of the day were exhibited by two F. and M. runners; Frey, a long distance man, trimming 20.6 seconds off the Patterson Field record in the two-mile, set a new mark of 10' 5.2"; and Pole, a sprinter, setting a new field record in the 100-yard dash with the time of 9.9 seconds. Other point getters for the Bears were Pancoast with a second in the 440 and a third in the 100, Murray with a second in the 100, Wynkoop with a second in the two-mile, Levin with a second in the shot put and a third in the broad jump, Straub with a second in the javelin, Pole with a tie for second in the high jump, Gaumer with a third in the high hurdles, Tworzydlo with a pair of thirds in the shot and the discus, and Bradford with a third in the pole vault.

Top row: Bradford on the pole vault; Levin takes a third in the broad jump; Robbins takes a second in the same event. Bottom: Rinehart wins the discus; Pancoast takes the Albright quarter mile and sets a new College record; Grimm in one of his jumps that won four first places for the Bears.

Tennis

WITH a record of five victories out of seven games played, the 1935 men's tennis team completed the most successful campaign in several seasons. A team of five men, led by Captain Jesse Heiges, who played second position, played every match, and all were awarded varsity letters for their superior playing. The other four men were Jack Davison, Clayton Worster, Mitch Fenimore, and Al Gaumer, playing first, third, fourth, and fifth positions in the order named. Four of the games originally scheduled by Manager Thomas Glassmoyer, the home matches with St. Joseph's, Albright, and Osteopathy, and the away meet with Villanova, were rained out. Harvey L. Carter acted as coach as the racqueteers averaged .714 for the season, the most successful sport of the year, judging by percentage of wins.

The individual records of each man are as follows: (Singles) Captain Heiges, won six, lost one (.857); Captain-elect Davison, won four, lost three (.571); Worster, won six, lost one (.857); Fenimore, won five, lost two (.714); Gaumer, won four, lost two (.667). (Doubles) Heiges and Davison, won four, lost two (.667); Worster and Fenimore, won four, lost two (.667); Worster and Gaumer, lost one.

MUHLENBERG: The Grizzly racqueteers, in their opening meet at Allentown on April 25, 1935, were downed by a powerful Muhlenberg aggregation that had the advantage of having played in three previous matches. Despite the one-sidedness of the 6-1 score, five of the individual matches were closely contested, going to three sets. The lone victory of the afternoon was rung up by Gaumer, playing in his first varsity tennis engagement, as he downed his opponent in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

OSTEOPATHY: The first victory came to the Bear netmen two weeks later as they whitewashed Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, 5-0, in a rain-hampered contest. Rain prevented the completion of the meet, shutting out the fifth singles and the second doubles matches. Captain Heiges set the pace in vanquishing his foe in two sets, 6-1, 6-0. Davison and Fenimore also walked over the Philadelphians in straight sets, Davison with scores of 6-2, 6-3, Fenimore with 8-6, 6-1. Worster and Fenimore took the only doubles match of the day in sixteen games, winning 6-1, 6-3.

VILLANOVA: A second shut-out was accredited to the U-men racqueteers, as Coach Carter's proteges, on their first home appearance, shellacked the over-rated Villanova team, 7-0. The Bears were never in danger although Captain Heiges was forced to an eighteen game set before being declared winner. All matches were taken in straight sets, except that of Gaumer, playing fifth position.

DREXEL: In the most closely battled meet of the season, the Grizzly netmen bowed before an evenly matched Drexel team, 4-3. Every match was close; the Bears, having taken the first three singles matches, lost out in the doubles. With the score standing three-all and with the Davison-Heiges doubles still to be played, the crowd was shown a thrilling exhibition of tennis in the fastest and most exciting meet of the day, as the play was forced to three sets. The Dragons ended victoriously, the score standing 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

LEBANON VALLEY: Before a large Open House Day crowd, the Cartermen closed their home schedule by nosing out the Lebanon Valley racquetmen, 4-3. Heiges, Worster, and Fenimore scored wins in their singles matches, and the fourth and winning point was secured by Davison and Heiges in the doubles. Jack Davison lost a hard-fought singles fray with scores of 2-6, 7-5, 2-6.

P. M. C.: A third shut-out and the fourth victory came to the Bear netmen as they downed the Chester Cadets on the P. M. C. courts. The Soldiers proved easy meat for the Ursinus invaders as they set back each opponent in order in two-set matches. Heiges and Fenimore shellacked their court opponents with 6-1, 6-1, scores.

ST. JOSEPH'S: The third consecutive victory followed four days later as the Grizzly courtmen swept the Hawks off their feet in this closing contest of the year. The final score was 6-1. Davison, playing number one, was the only Bear to lose. The Ursinus wins were all registered in two-set matches, except the Davison-Heiges doubles, which was finally clinched in a nine-game third set.

FOOTBALL

Under the supervision of Don Kellett, new freshman coach, the Frosh eleven passed through an almost perfect four-game season, the record being marred only by a 0-0 deadlock that came in the last game of the season. Only six points were scored against the Bear Cubs as they piled up twenty-eight. Outstanding players on the Frosh team were Power and Broomall, backs, Meklas, center, and Todt, guard.

Farm School was the first victim of the freshman assault, as the Bears nosed them out by one touchdown scored in the waning minutes of the game on a pass from Power to Eshbach. Gurzynski converted the extra point for a 7-0 victory. Another 7-0 win was registered against Perkiomen Prep, this time the score being made by Meklas the center, who early in the second quarter crashed through the Prep school defense to block a kick, recover the ball, and race twenty-five yards for a touchdown.

The third consecutive victory came in the Drexel Frosh game, the final score being 14-6. Both Grizzly touchdowns were made by Power, one in the second quarter and the second in the final period as he raced off tackle, tore loose, and ran seventy-five yards to score. The Brown Prep game, the only contest played on Patterson Field, ended in a 0-0 draw, although the visitors had the edge in yardage and first downs gained. Power's punting and Meklas' defensive work were outstanding.

BASEBALL

The 1935 Frosh baseball season ended with the sorry record of no victories and four losses. Of the four games played two were close contests, one going to eleven innings. The other two were more like batting practices for the opponents than ball games. However, despite the record, several fine ball players were uncovered by Coach Horse Chase, the outstanding men being Tomlinson, Chak, and Hunter, all infielders, who led the hitting for the season. The first game played was with Hill School, in which both teams showed mid-season form and in which Zoll, Bear hurler, kept things well in hand throughout the game. The Pottstown nine came through in the last half of the ninth with a home run that gave them the game with a score of 7-6.

A series of games with the Villanova Frosh followed, both of which ended with the Wildcat Cubs five runs in the lead. The first, played at Villanova, was lost, 10-5; and the return game, which was forced to eleven innings, ended with the score, 15-10. Perkiomen was the last of the Grizzly Cub opponents, and emerged victorious in a 16-3 slugfest. The Prep boys scored in all but two innings while the visiting pitcher held the Frosh to four hits. Zoll pitched all three games.

BASKETBALL

The Frosh courtmen reversed the success of the gridiron, as they succeeded in winning only two of nine games played. Don Kellett also coached the basketball team, outstanding players of which were Power and Broomall, guards, Dunn, center, Ehret and Eshbach, forwards. Other members of the squad were Flamish, Sampson, Harbaugh, Gushard, and Miller. Eshbach was high scorer for the Cubs with 52 points, while Power ranked second with 46.

Victories were gained over Wyomissing Polytechnic Institute, 21-8, and Girard College, 31-20. Power led the scoring in the first game with eleven tallies, while Ehret and Eshbach rated first in the Girard game with six apiece. The other games with scores were: Perkiomen, 31-24; Drexel Frosh, 30-22; Curtis High School of Staten Island, 34-27; Hill School, 42-22; Perkiomen, 28-21; Villanova Frosh, 58-11; and Drexel Frosh, 40-27. The highest number of individual points in any one game were made in the second Perkiomen fray by Eshbach, who notched 15, and again by Eshbach in the second Drexel contest, when he totalled 12.

Women's Athletic Association

THE WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION is the feminine counterpart of the Varsity Club, being an honorary organization for those undergraduate women who have participated in sports. Its purpose is to stimulate an interest in amateur athletics. It differs from the men's organization in that a student does not have to earn a letter to gain membership, the requirements for admission being based on a point system. These points are awarded for intercollegiate competition, participation in intramural athletics, and for other activities such as hiking. A total of sixty points is necessary for membership, which does not carry over from year to year.

The Council of the W. A. A. acts as a governing board for all womens athletics, and is composed of the officers of the association, one representative elected from each class, and the managers of the three sports.

Tennis

IN the five matches that constituted the girls' tennis schedule for the 1935 season, the co-eds proved less successful than their masculine schoolmates, losing three straight matches before finding themselves to win the last two of the season. All the matches were played away.

The campaign opened with two 5-0 shut-outs, suffered at the hands of Bryn Mawr and Swarthmore. In the third event of the season, Mt. St. Joseph's turned what seemed to be an Ursinus victory into a 2-3 defeat. Captain Barnett opened the tournament with a two-set match victory in the singles, but LeCron and Francis both fell before the onslaughts of their opponents. Francis, playing a member of the Eastern League Tennis Tournament, turned in scores of 7-9, 5-7. The Grizzly Co-eds split even on the doubles, Barnett and Ganser winning in two straight love sets, and LeCron and Francis losing.

The first win was gained at the expense of Rosemont when the "U" co-eds turned in a 4-1 victory over their Main Line opponents. Individual victories were won by Bups Francis, playing first position, with scores of 6-2, 2-6, 6-4; by Barnett, playing third singles, with scores of 7-5, 6-0; by both doubles teams, Francis and LeCron winning 6-1, 6-0, and Barnett and Ganser, 6-1, 6-3.

The Drexel female Dragons were met and defeated on the Philadelphia courts in the last match of the season. Ruth LeCron hung up her first victory for the year by downing her Blue and Gold opponent, 6-3, 6-0, in straight sets. Captain Barnett took the third singles match with similar scores, and then teamed up with Ganser in the second doubles match to win the third event and the afternoon's play for the Ursinus outfit. The final score was 3-2.

Captain Barnett won three of her five singles matches, and teamed up with Lydia Ganser to score three doubles victories. LeCron and Francis each won one singles match out of five, while joined as a doubles combination they won two out of five matches.

Those winning letters or certificates were Captain Lillian Barnett, Ruth LeCron, Bertha Francis, Lydia Ganser, and Nancy Pugh, manager. Bertha Francis was awarded a gold tennis racquet for four year's service, and Lillian Barnett received an award of a silver racquet. Lydia Ganser was elected captain of the 1936 squad, and Virginia Fenton was named manager.

Hockey

DESPITE the fact that the hockey team, captained by Doris Roach, faced the season with only six veteran players, the team pulled through to a successful finale of five wins, three losses, and one tie. Outstanding play was shown throughout the season by Captain Roach and Sarah Helen Keyser in the forward line, by Virginia Fenton, 1936 captain-elect and veteran fullback, and by Dorothy Hutt, freshman goalie, who played her first college hockey last fall.

The close of the season was celebrated with a banquet held at the Hamilton Hotel, Norristown, on December 10, at which fifteen girls and two coaches were present. Here announcement was made of the following awards: gold hockey sticks for four years of play to Doris Roach and Sarah Helen Keyser; varsity certificates to Mary Billett, Virginia Fenton, Doris Roach, and Sarah Helen Keyser; letters to Edna Meyers, Theresa Keyser, Ada Young, Ruth Rothenberger, Lola Reed, Grace Lees, Ruth Shoemaker, Ruth Grauert, Dorothy Hutt, Lillian Lucia, manager, and Betty Stover, assistant manager.

THE SEASON

BUCCANEERS GAME: Handicapped by a wet field and an almost entirely inexperienced team, the co-ed eleven managed to eke out a 1-0 victory over the invading Buccaneers. The score was made by Theresa Keyser in the first half.

SWARTHMORE GAME: The first away game resulted in a defeat as the Maroon and Gray hockeyites turned the tables on the Snellgirls and sank a goal in the waning minutes of the final period. Only once did Ursinus threaten, when Captain Roach slipped one by the goalie only to have the player called back on an offside foul.

ALUMNAE GAME: The co-ed feature of Old Timers' Day brought the second 1-0 victory to the varsity sticksters, as Ada Young tallied in the final quarter to down the Alumnae.

ROSEMONT GAME: Overwhelming the Rosemont aggregation in a one-sided game, the "U"-girls racked up their third victory in four starts. In the opening minutes, Sarah Helen Keyser started the scoring, to be closely followed by Ada Young. The third pointer came in the third quarter, Keyser again sinking the puck in the net.

BRYN MAWR GAME: The Main Liners handed the Bear hockeyites their second defeat in a close tussle, in which the lone pointer of the Ursinus team was ruled out on a foul. Bryn Mawr won, 1-0.

BEAVER GAME: The worst defeat of the season was suffered at the hands of the Co-eds' ancient rival, Beaver, as the Jenkintown host upset the Grizzly eleven, 3-0. Two tallies were made in the first half, and one in the third quarter.

DREXEL GAME: A postponed match with the Drexel co-eds ended in a 0-0 deadlock as neither team showed sufficient drive to put the ball past the goalies' concentrated defenses.

RHODE ISLAND GAME: Goals by Roach and Meyers gave the Ursinus hockeyites a 2-0 win over the heretofore undefeated New England team, on its tour of the Middle Atlantic States.

MORAVIAN GAME: In a game that remained scoreless throughout the first half, the Snell sticksters netted their most decisive victory. Moravian, weakened by repeated advances of the home team, allowed Roach, Meyers, S. H. Keyser, and Young to score in quick succession in the final period. The final score was 4-0.

WITH a record of five victories, one tie, and two losses to its credit, Coach Snell's sextet brought to a close a relatively successful basketball season. Seven girls received letters for their varsity play, Captain Doris Roach, Captains-elect Virginia Fenton and Sylvia Erdman, Sarah Helen Keyser, Ruth Shoemaker, Edna Meyers, and Ruth Rothenberger.

Victories were won over Phoenixville, Drexel (2), Swarthmore, and Moravian, while defeats were suffered at the hands of Mt. St. Joseph's, and Beaver. Perhaps the most outstanding game of the season was the Rosemont tilt in which the Ursinus sextet managed to hold its own against a previously undefeated team. The game ended in a 22-22 stalemate.

With the exception of the Phoenixville contest, two-court rules were observed; Fenton, Meyers, and Roach played the guard positions, while Erdman, Keyser, and Shoemaker held down the forward posts. Of these latter the highest individual point scorer was Sylvia Erdman with a total of 67 counters, while Ruth Shoemaker, a freshman addition to the club, netted 57, and Sarah Helen Keyser, one of the two departing seniors, totalled 44. The fine teamwork and defensive play of the three guards deserves an equal amount of credit for the success of the combination.

The season opened with the Phoenixville tussle, which was a one-sided fray all the way through. The Ursinus sextet completely outplayed their opponents to outscore them three to one in a 20-6 victory. Sarah Helen Keyser starred by racking up 14 points. There followed two more wins as the Grizzly co-ed basketekers turned back the Drexel sextet in two successive battles. Erdman was high scorer in the first of these with 12 points, her record being equalled by Shoemaker in the return fray.

The first defeat was suffered at the hands of a strong Mt. St. Joseph's combination in a close game that ended with the Philadelphia aggregation four points ahead. Erdman again led the scoring with 7 counters. Two more opponents fell before the attack of the Snell-coached sextet after this initial setback. Swarthmore and Moravian were the victims; in the Swarthmore contest, Shoemaker, with a total of 15 points, set the record for the highest individual scoring per game. Erdman led the point-gatherers in the Moravian tilt with 7 tallies.

The Rosemont game, which followed, ended in a tie; and the season closed with a final defeat inflicted by the Co-eds' ancient rival, Beaver, after the "U" girls led at the half, 9-4. The second half found the Jenkintown girls breaking through the heretofore steady Ursinus defense to overtake and defeat the visitors.

Junior

The chaperones' corner at the Junior Prom.

Junior Prom

THE annual Junior Promenade, held April 5, 1935, went down on record as being financially the most successful affair of its kind in years. With approximately one hundred and fifteen couples packing the gymnasium, receipts amounted to over three hundred and fifty dollars, giving the class a net profit of about eighty.

Socially, too, the affair was praised highly by patrons of the dance as they waltzed, glided, and trucked around to the music of Phil Emerton and his ten Diamonds. The slower tempos which predominated were favored by the large and enthusiastic crowd. Features of the evening's entertainment were the vocal choruses sung by Doris Lee and the various novelty numbers interspersed between dances. The favorite of these was "Devil's Kitchen", on which the orchestra really "went to town", to use the vernacular.

The gymnasium was decorated in white and two shades of blue. Dark streamers, from which stars were hung, ran from the sides of the building to the center, where they were attached to a chandelier of the same material. The walls were hung with light blue and white slash crepe paper, and silhouettes were hung along the walls at intervals. The false ceiling provided the effect that can be gathered from a glance at the picture opposite, as it was taken from the balcony. The chaperones, as are also shown in the picture, were seated in an alcove constructed of the same material as that which decorated the walls.

The promenade, which took place after the fifth dance, was led by Thomas Beddow, class president, accompanied by Miss Virginia Fenton, and James Reese, committee chairman, accompanied by Miss Frances Kline. Chaperones for the affair were Dean Wharton A. Kline, Dr. Elizabeth B. White, Prof. and Mrs. J. Harold Brownback, and Dr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald.

Senior Ball

UNDER the leadership of Thomas J. Beddow, president of the class for his second consecutive year, and a committee headed by Mark R. Stoudt, the class of '36 again succeeded in presenting a formal dance that proved to be a success both socially and financially. Slightly less than a hundred couples packed the gymnasium floor on December 5, 1935, as Del Regis and his thirteen-piece broadcasting orchestra supplied the music. This band, having come to Ursinus in the interlude between its extended appearance at the Arcadia Restaurant in Philadelphia and its stage appearance in the Earle Theatre of the same city, mixed its slow and fast numbers and gave a performance that many considered the finest of any formal dance orchestra in recent years.

Features of the evening's musical entertainment were provided by the vocalist, Jay Jerome, and by a period of novelty numbers presented directly before the intermission. At this time, the band gave its rendition of "White Heat", a number that had previously won renown for the orchestra.

Dancing continued from nine until one o'clock amid surroundings in keeping with the Christmas spirit. Red and white crepe paper with a large chandelier in the center to match, pine on a red background accentuated by Christmas tree lights at the windows, and a ceiling of white completed the decorations. An idea of the effect of the decorations can be gathered from the pictures opposite which show a scene in the midst of the dance as well as a snap of the band in action.

The chaperones for this annual event were Dr. Elizabeth B. White, Prof. and Mrs. J. Harold Brownback, Dr. and Mrs. Philip B. Willauer, Miss Sarah Mary Ouderkirk, Mr. William S. Pettit, Miss Bertha F. Bier, and Mr. Eugene Miller.

Junior Play

OVER three hundred people jammed the Thompson-Gay gymnasium on the night of April 6, 1935, to see the Class of 1936 present "Hawk Island", a three-act mystery play by Howard Irving Young. The action of the play takes place at the summer home of one Gregory Sloane, the owner of the island, at whose residence a house party is being given on a summer evening.

Besides containing fast moving scenes, during the course of which the murdered man is killed twice, the scenery and lighting effects brought out the high spots and added to the thrills of the evening. Off-stage sound effects were especially good, too. Booming claps of thunder . . . waves dashing against the shore . . . the distant tolling of a bell buoy . . . shots in the darkness . . . all contributed to the interest and excitement of the performance.

The characters of the play included Tom Austen, a jealous and distrusting husband who turns out to be the murderer; Gregory Sloane, the hero and solver of the mystery, a well-looking, carefree man in his early thirties; Paul Cooper, a sarcastic, bored, young man; Anthony Bryce, middle-aged writer of murder mysteries; Lynn Rogers, a wizened old man of 60, father of the heroine; Captain Westover, a gruff, sea-faring man; Madeline Austen, wife of Tom, an emotional, beautiful woman in her late twenties; Harriet Cooper, the quiet and reserved wife of Paul; and Sally Rogers, the heroine, a young and pretty girl just out of college.

The production was coached by Dr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald.

Senior Play

"A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT", a three-act drama by Clemence Dane, climaxed the Senior Week-end of the class of 1936. The play was coached by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Sibbald, official mentors of the Curtain Club.

The scene is laid in a small house in the English countryside on Christmas Day, 1933. The events of the story center about a home, the father of which has been confined to an insane asylum since the war, supposedly suffering from shell-shock. Matters become complicated when he suddenly returns home cured, only to find that his wife, who believed his malady incurable, had become engaged to another man during his absence. An only daughter, young and independent, makes possible the completion of her mother's plans when she sacrifices her own love affair to live with and care for her hitherto unknown father.

The entire cast turned in a creditable performance, but honors went to Elmer Schmitt and Nancy Pugh in the leading roles. Schmitt, playing the part of the formerly insane father, rose to the necessary heights in the tense dramatic scenes, while acting smoothly throughout. Nancy Pugh took the part of the self-sacrificing daughter. Virginia Garrett, in the role of the perplexed wife, and Pauline Heffleger, as the maid, also gave capable performances on their first Ursinus stage appearances. Donald Ohl, Montgomery Weidner, Elizabeth Evans, Henry Schaeffer, and William Solly, veteran Curtain Club performers, made up the supporting cast and well maintained the former calibre of their dramatic work.

THE PICTURE'S THE THING

Year Books are made to perpetuate pleasant memories, pleasant friendships and to refresh us in after years about those wonderful days.

Of course, pictures are the most important element — and in printing they represent the ultimate impression. They should be made as good as the finest craftsmanship will permit.

That is the crux of our effort—to serve with sincerity and furnish quality engravings that properly pictures those happy years.

May Day, 1935

A MAY Pageant, "Our Heritage of Women", written by S. Elizabeth McBride, '36, featured the annual Mother's Day celebration held on Saturday, May 11, 1935. The theme of the pageant centered about the worthwhile contributions that women through the ages have given to mankind in the fields of literature, religion, government, and education.

Prudence Dedrick, of the class of '35, was crowned Queen of the May and presided over the festivities. She received the program which "History" offered for her entertainment. Accompanying the Queen were her attendants and the Elf of History, portraying the part of a jester. The attendants were: the Class of '35, Troupiere Sipe and Freda Schindler; the Class of '36, Mary Helen Alspach and Elizabeth Krusen; the Class of '37, Ida Trout and Virginia Fenton; the Class of '38, Elizabeth Ware and Caroline Rhoads. The class representatives were Anne Grimm, '35, Mildred Peterman, '36, Lillian French, '37, and Mary Elizabeth Grounds, '38.

The various contributions of women were represented by Sappho, the poetess; St. Clare of Assisi, a religious leader; Queen Elizabeth, the exponent of good government; and Mary Lyon, a great pioneer of education for women in the United States. The general theme was concluded with a "Hymn to Womanhood", in which all members of the pageant participated.

The character parts in the production were taken by the following: History, Ruth Burrowes, '35; Elf of History, Lillian Lucia, '37; Sappho, Sylvia Erdman, '37; Saint Clare, Elizabeth Evans, '36; Assistant to Saint Clare, Emma Kirkpatrick, '36; Saint Frances, Mildred Fox, '35; Brother Juniper, Pauline Heffleger, '36; Leader of a group of travellers, Carolyn Mullin, '37; Mother, Mildred File, '35; Older Daughter, Anne Sutton, '37; Younger Daughter, Elizabeth Santo, '37; Grandmother, Beatrice Pearlstone, '37; Granddaughter, Alma Ludwig, '36; Old Man, Marie Barlow, '37; Nuns, Vivian Jensen, '37, Ruth Hamma, '35; Queen Elizabeth, Heradah Newsome, '35; Young Charles Blount, Ruth Renneberg, '35; Ladies-in-waiting — coquette, Evelyn Hoover, '35; aloof lady, Eleanor Bothell, '37; young bride, Theresa Keyser, '38; giggling lady, Florence Eisenberg, '37; Noblemen — those in love with coquette, Phyllis Watson, '37, Lyndell Reber, '36; gentleman in love with aloof lady, Mildred Olp, '37; young husband, Jessie Wilson, '36; ladies' man, Ruth Seitz, '37; woman-hater, Dorothy Shindel, '35; Village Magistrate, Lillian Barnett, '35; Village Queen, Helen Brendle, '35; Councilmen, Wilhelmina Meinhardt, '36, Utahna Basow, '37; Mary Lyon, Janet Bardsley, '35; Girlhood, Margaret Paxson, '35; Students, Mary McDevitt, '37, Ruth Verna, '37, Kathleen Black, '37, Sara Ennis, '37.

The pageant was directed by Mrs. Josephine X. Sheeder, assisted by the author, and was managed by Dorothea Wieand, '36, and Margaret Shively, '35. The committee heads were: Costume committee, Ione Hausmann, '35; Program committee, Harriet Stapp, '35; Publicity committee, Doris Wilfong, '35; Personal Properties, Helen Laubenstein, '36; Dance Properties, Bertha Francis, '35; Stage Properties, Marion Kern, '35; and Music committee, Ruth Rothenberger, '36.

A Year's Gaff

APRIL 29, 1935

ODE TO COVERT

No more shall you pen your ancient news,
And never again set forth your views.
Goodbye, you snake, you're a down and outer.
I'd like to break your neck, you rotter.

Us poor girls you heckled and haunted,
As always before us your power you flaunted,
But now you're through and we have the laugh.
"Covert is dead! Long live GAFF!"

MAY 6, 1935

ODE TO BRIAN

RUBY Brian was a big-shot gleaner,
Said he, "I'll keep my column cleaner."
So he diddled and punned, but lacking class,
He soon became the campus (censored).

MAY 13, 1935

It was bad enough when an "open-houser" told Alex Lewis he could tell he was a freshman, but it hurt when he too tried to convince "Spider" Reynolds that he was one of the same.

MAY 20, 1935

"K. K." Kwiecinski, Brodbeck's Beloved Bachelor, has (like Rinehart) taken the fatal plunge . . . at a
"Sweet Pea."

MAY 27, 1935

The regular weekly meeting of the P. P. Club was held on Wednesday night. The name has again been changed. Instead of "Partly Platonic", the monicker now is "Positively Passionate."

JUNE 10, 1935

A salute to Charlie George as the only one on campus who had enough power to evade GAFF since his entrance here.

SEPTEMBER 16, 1935

Welcome back, South, and don't be disappointed if you don't make GAFF so often this year. We have to reserve some space for the elite of Clamer Hall.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1935

Little Marlin Brandt has another cute monicker attached to his already long list of nicknames. He's the "Baron" to you, suh!

SEPTEMBER 30, 1935

THE BEST GUYS

Maples—King Rube
Glenwood—Tommy Tucker
South—P. P. Grimm
Lynnewood—"Sieb"
Shreiner—Hooper Grenawalt
Fircroft—Still a battle royal.
Clamer—Alone in the world.

OCTOBER 7, 1935

NEWS FLASH—Results of the Clamer regal election show: Bodley—17; Rappoport—0; "Mousey" Towsey—0; "Solitude" Harbaugh—0. From "Alone in the World", their motto now becomes "We Want Justice."

OCTOBER 14, 1935

All men wishing to take the blame for the Derr-
Freeland-Stine tea parties report to the Men's Student Council. Certified pourer's certificates required. Initiation fee—one well-filled wallet.

OCTOBER 21, 1935

Famous Last Words of the Sophs:
"We knew all the time that Harbaugh was president."

OCTOBER 28, 1935

And from Clyde Leon we learn that there are plenty of nice girls on this campus. So what!

We hope that South Hall (old friend) is satisfied with things in general. It's been a long time since Krusen crashed GAFF, and since we're handing out orchids this week, here she is.

1206 Chestnut Street

Philadelphia

NOVEMBER 4, 1935

John "The Great" Throne, waiter par excellence, has asked GAFF to announce to the fair sex that he is not tied down in the least, and that he can be had.

NOVEMBER 11, 1935

It looks as if the girls will have to put up with "Koshay's" dancing until "Rock and Roll" Broomall gets back on his feet.

Jack Davison sure has faith in someone.

NOVEMBER 25, 1935

In behalf of those students who made their appearance on the Dean's notorious "All-American", GAFF wishes to express its gratitude to the foreign language department.

DECEMBER 2, 1935

A few brave lads kept the campus under control during the vacation and all know now what this school would be like were it not co-ed.

DECEMBER 9, 1935

The way some of these Rec Hall Romeos dance, they should be in good shape for the ice-skating season. Others appear to show the effects of having eaten too many Mexican jumping beans.

Incidentally it was hard to recognize the "Rec-Hallers" at the Senior Ball until the dancing started.

DECEMBER 16, 1935

Can Schaffer be the "Roast-Duck" Charlie all the girls are talking about?

JANUARY 13, 1936

Who is next? Leo William Padden made his spectacular debut on Friday night.

The Greek is sure of one thing and that is that her last name is Lees.

JANUARY 20, 1935

Classes have stopped and we now have two weeks' vacation with exams.

Only three more weeks and it will be here. It's about time this column is giving the famed Lorelei dance some publicity.

FEBRUARY 10, 1936

RUSHING SONG

You come our way,
Look what we'll do for you.

Wimpy Laurer (studying): "Elbert, what is the Chancellor of the Exquelcher?"

FEBRUARY 17, 1936

It looks as if the gals from South are making a determined drive to gain the honor of "Ruby Widow" for one of their fairest representatives.

Gina Fenton says normalcy has returned to the campus.

FEBRUARY 24, 1936

Weekly Editor's Theme Song: I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter (and make believe it came from . . .) Associates never learn, Elbert!

MARCH 2, 1936

WANTED

One large, solid head of good farmer's lettuce; good price offered. For details, see "Bunny" Beddow, 303 Brodbeck. One cigar will do as well.

Freddie Glatfelter has suffered a physical relapse since the Lorelei and as a result has cast his glance toward a cute little Maples' "chippy."

MARCH 9, 1936

We have enough space to mention Harbaugh, the toothless one. Even a week-end at home failed to produce that tooth.

And it was said Frankie Tworzydlo stepped out of his shell of conservatism Friday night.

MARCH 16, 1936

To quote Zerbe, "It's hard to cope with the situation."

MARCH 23, 1936

Important People in the World of Pugilism:

"Intermuriel Pancoast, of whom nothing need be said; he has an honest face."

MARCH 30, 1936

Here's our last chance to mention Gracie "of the uncertain lover" Krusen; Marlin "Putt Putt" Brandt; Kansas "Bunny" Beddow; T. P. and his gal; "Good Time" and "Hard Time" Gaumer; "Toot" Wildonger of Cedar Crest; "Schnosz" of the many loves; we omit Roachie and Lachy by request.

Freshman Year to Cap and Gown . . . REVISITED

SOME day you'll go back. You'll see again the friends you know so well . . . the old familiar places rooted in your heart. You'll go to class again, swim, walk the paths, sing on the steps, wave a hand across the morning campus. Some day you'll go back . . . by year book!

For the college year-book, this book, is a living record and a history. Over its pages pass the glamorous procession from freshman year to cap and gown. It freshens the memory, kindles imagination's fire, recalls, in vivid hue, the pageant of four years. It brings to life once more all that made life at college so deep and real.

To the printing of the college year book, Lyon & Armor bring a skill and imagination born of years of knowing how. You see the finished book. But months ago, Lyon & Armor selected the right type face . . . chose the right papers . . . diligently watched over all press-work. If, as we believe, the completed book is a distinguished example of the printers' craft, it is because painstaking care has been taken to make it so.

Lyon & Armor are printers of year books, magazines, house organs, and of commercial and school work in all phases.

"One Word More"

YEAR after year editors of yearbooks have made much of the vast amount of work involved in putting out a college annual. The 1936 RUBY was no exception in this respect; but the work has been completed, and it seems to me there is now no need to write about all the trouble and worries that went with it. Enough to say that despite all the assistance members of the staff, the class, and others might be willing to give, under the present conditions at Ursinus the bulk of the work will continue to fall upon the editor and his business manager. However, I am grateful for the help of those few who, by sharing some of the drudgery, considerably lightened my burden in producing this annual. So I wish to take this last opportunity to express my appreciation:

To the Class of '36 — for the confidence they have shown in me in electing me to the editorship of this publication.

To those members of the Editorial Staff who responded to my many calls for assistance with the write-ups; and especially to Thomas W. Garrett, '36, whose ever-ready willingness to lend a hand aided greatly in handling routine matters.

To John H. Brown, the business manager, who proved himself the most capable of all RUBY business managers of recent years by his management of the financial affairs of the book; to Gordon W. Spangler, the advertising manager, through whose splendid co-operation and ceaseless activity most of the advertisements of the RUBY were secured; to George R. Matthews, Albert R. Gaumer, and Dorothea S. Wieand of the circulation staff; and to Robert L. Brandaur for his assistance in various matters.

To the College—for the services it rendered the RUBY in taking care of the subscription money and in permitting the use of the faculty room of the Library for photography work.

To Leonard H. Cadwell, '34, who provided me with nearly all the pictures in the athletic section and most of the other informal snapshots throughout the book.

To the Sarony Studio—for their excellent portrait and group photography; and to Mr. N. Francis Rubin of that firm for his helpful co-operation and timely assistance.

To Mr. Eugene Durkin—of the Phototype Engraving Co., who planned the layout of the book and aided considerably in keeping expenses within our limited budget.

To Mr. Orville Stambaugh—of Lyon & Armor Printing Co., for his unceasing interest and kind advice.

To the Phototype Engraving Company and the Lyon & Armor Printing Company—for their exceptional engraving and printing work in this volume.

Thus ends the task of editing the 1936 RUBY, which will soon take its place on dusty shelves with other RUBIES and probably be forgotten. Though the peak of its life is bound to be short, may it also be notable. By one person, however, the 1936 RUBY and the experience that came with editing it will long be remembered.
